CHURCH IS FACING CRISIS, DECLARES REMBERT G. SMITH

Minister Urges Education, Moral Suasion and Evangelism in Place of Engaging in Politics.

CATHOLIC POLITICAL RIGHTS ARE UPHELD

Dr. Smith Blames Crisis on "Incendiary Innovation Begun in Church in Presidential Campaign."

BY THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Creating a sensation among the members of the North Georgia conference, which is to meet here November 13, Dr. Rembert G. Smith, pastor of Washington (Ga.) Methodist church, south, has issued an advance statement in which he serves notice that he will undertake to eliminate all efforts at "politicalizing" the Southern Methodist church and declares that the church now faces a crisis as acute as that of 1890 when the general conference met in New Orleans.

Dr. Smith deprecates the recent ventures in politics by churchmen and announces that he will introduce at the North Georgia conference memorials condemning political activity by the church and, in event the conference should fail to adopt his resolution, that he will ask that his personal protests be entered on the conference journal.

In his statement Dr. Smith refers to the political activities of "at least three of our bishops." He mentions no names but his statement recalls his controversy with Bishop James Cannon, during the campaign and after its conclusion. Dr. Smith was an avowed advocate of a hands off policy on the part of the church. Bishop Cannon was the leader of the opposing forces. In a number of communications, which were published in the leading newspapers of the country, Dr. Smith attacked the bishop's views, and pointed out certain alleged contradictions on the part of the anti-Smith leaders in church ranks.

Memorials offered. Dr. Smith's memorials are four in number, with the added protest in case of failure of memorial No. 1. His first memorial has this caption: "Memorial on the church and the political rights of Roman Catholics." The second memorial is entitled "Memorial on the church and personal and party politics." The third, "Memorial on the church and the political rights of the people." The fourth, "Memorial on the church and the political rights of the people."

"My conviction is that our beloved church faces a crisis, which is caused, first, by the problem as to whether or not the politicalizing of our church shall continue," says Dr. Smith. "This was begun by four of our bishops, a number of our ministers, one of our connectional boards, and several of our church organs, in the presidential campaign of 1928. It is gladly admitted that the motives of these leaders were sincere and that they showed real courage. Even if they were wise in seeking to lead our church into personal and party politics in 1928, admitted only for the argument, is this policy properly to be made permanent? Effort is now being made to make it permanent by able and resourceful leaders in the church."

As Usual, The Best

The Constitution, as usual, presents its strong lineup of writers and experts to bring you deftly painted word pictures of the important football happenings of this afternoon. One Georgia team is playing in an intersection game that centers eastern attraction; another is in an important conference contest. Oglethorpe plays here at home; Kentucky meets a tough one in Alabama and 70,000 people will watch Army's Cagle against Illinois today.

Here's the lineup:

ED DANFORTH, premier in the southern sport field, is in New York to tell you about the Georgia-N. Y. U. game in his inimitable style.

RALPH MCGILL, outstanding expert and a most entertaining writer, is at Nashville to describe the happenings there as Tech, twice beaten but still dangerous, meets undefeated Vanderbilt.

BEN COTHRAN will be on hand as Oglethorpe, at home for the second time in its football history, meets strong Manhattan college from New York.

GRANTLAND RICE will watch Onward Christian Cagle against Illinois and the sport section will contain the accurate reports of the Associated Press and other news services.

WHEN YOU get The Constitution sport section Sunday morning you will have everything you need. Nothing will be missing.

Score Tied Up Once More In Beavers-Poole Battle

BY L. A. FARRELL.

"Scorer, chalk up one for the Beavers-Sturdivant team," Mr. Unofficial Observer directed Friday at police headquarters as Lieut. T. O. Sturdivant announced he "had the goods" on Emory Van Duzer, a negro, charged with the slaying of Mrs. Sarah Gould in her husband's West Side grocery Saturday night.

The scorer complied and announced: "Tied up again, one to one." "What?" asked the observer. Then he was informed that news had just reached the detective department that J. W. Wike, arrested by Sturdivant's crew for the murder of Prof. Alexander H. Johnston had been ordered admitted to bail of $2,000 by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court. This action was hailed by Poole's followers as a negative victory for the detective department, for John W. Lowe, the ace of Poole's homicide squad, had "looked Wike over" and decided he wasn't guilty. After which Sturdivant and his men arrested him and had him indicted for the murder. Judge Pomeroy's order for his release on small bond was coupled with the statement of Assistant Solicitor-General John H. Hudson that the case against Wike was "not too strong."

The observer was approached and asked what he was all about. "Well," he explained, "Everybody knows Detective Chief Beavers and Police Chief Poole don't agree. When there is a murder or a robbery both Poole's and Sturdivant's men get on the case working independently of each other. It's just a race. First one side scores and then the other. The Sturdivant squad was organized to keep the peace between the police and since its inception the bridge between the detective chief and Beavers has widened day by day."

"What does all this amount to?" this seemingly well informed person was asked.

"Well," he responded, "Observers and politicians are full of wells. It is apparent that we have two detectives, one operating under Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole and the second working under Lieut. Sturdivant, who was appointed to the task by Chief of Police James L. Beavers. It's an open secret that Beavers and Poole don't like each other and if anything in common. Beavers learned his tricks in uniform and Poole learned his in plainclothes. Each believes the other's system is of no value."

The observer seemed to know a

J. T. MEEHAN, HIT BY AUTO, IS DEAD

End Comes at Grady Less Than Half Hour After Accident—Autoist Is Arrested.

J. T. Meehan, 50, a member of the Typographical Union, who lived at the Gate City hotel, died late Friday night at Grady hospital less than half an hour after he was struck down by an automobile at Trinity avenue and Forsyth street.

C. E. Canary, 35, a postman, of 329 Hendrix avenue, East Point, driver of the machine, told Call Officers Ed Norwood and M. O. Evans that as he approached the intersection he saw the man running directly into the path of the car and that he could not avoid striking him. It is said there were no eyewitnesses to the accident except the driver.

Taken to the hospital by ambulance, Meehan expired shortly after first aid treatment was administered.

Held without bond or reckless driving charges, Canary will be given a hearing at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in recorder's court.

J. Austin Dillon company will announce funeral arrangements.

New French Premier and M. Briand Withstand 6-Hour Interpellation by Deputies.

BALLOT REVEALS MAJORITY OF 71

All-Night Session Finds Government Unmoved From Position Favoring Ruhr Evacuation.

Paris, November 9.—(Saturday.)—

(P)—The chamber of deputies voted confidence in the government of Premier Andre Tardieu, 327 against 256, today.

The session had continued far into the morning, speaker after speaker occupying the tribune and trying by every subterfuge to embarrass the government.

When M. Marin, who was one of those principally responsible for the downfall of the Briand ministry, announced he would vote for the government a victory for the latter seemed a foregone conclusion.

Briand Gets Ovation.

The government majority of 71 was greater than had been expected when the session began last evening. The vote was taken at 3:30 a. m. and before the court had been checked it was unofficially reported in the crowded lobbies that the government had won, although by a smaller margin than the actual majority.

M. Briand had spoken for hours yesterday at the first session of the chamber, reviewing his long career in the service of the French republic and his acts particularly in regard to occupation of the Rhineland and German reparations. Nearly all parties and commissions shared in the ovation given him at the close.

Premier Tardieu took up the task of winning support for the new cabinet at about 11 o'clock last night.

He obtained cheers from the right and center by declaring that the Rhineland would not be evacuated on June 30, 1930, unless the Young plan had been put into force.

Oratory Turns Tide.

Observers credited the victory of the government in this first tilt with the chamber to the oratory of these two men. Tardieu with energy, good humor and practical sense had explained his ambitious program of tax reforms and reductions and Briand's lucid exposition of the foreign policy allayed the fears of many with regard to French security.

The opening of the night session at 9:30 p. m. had been watched from a distance by one of the largest crowds to assemble along the banks of the Seine to await the fate of the cabinet.

Man Shoots Self Twice As Clubbed Gun Discharges In Marital Quarrel at Glennville.

WOMAN IS NEAR DEATH IN HOSPITAL

Two Husbands, on Rampage, Kill Young Girl, Wound Wife and Slay Selves.

Glennville, Ga., November 8.—

(P)—I. J. Strickler, 35, Marietta, and his sister-in-law, Dorothy, 13, are dead, and Mrs. I. J. Strickler, 30, is in a Chattanooga hospital with a bullet wound through her lung. She is not expected to recover.

The shooting, according to Mrs. Emma Autry, mother of the slain girl and Mrs. Strickler, was the climax of an argument over the return of the Stricklers to their home in Ohio.

Strickler had recently arrived to visit her mother and had stayed longer than Strickler had thought she should. The husband came to insist that she return.

Strickler, according to Mrs. Autry, went home Thursday night and told her what he was going to do.

He called his wife and her sister in one room and threatened to kill the mother-in-law if she attempted to interfere, according to Mrs. Autry. The mother fled as Strickler's gun blazed out a message that she knew meant death to her children. He then turned the gun on himself.

Papers found on Strickler's person indicated he operated a filling station at Stanville, Ohio. He also had a letter to Congress next month. Little was known here about Strickler or his family connections in Ohio.

CLUBBED GUN KILLS GEORGIAN.

Glennville, Ga., November 8.—(P)—Sheriff Chapman, of Ludowici, who came here to investigate the killing, was informed that Boone's gun was discharged twice, once as he was holding it and once as he was holding it to his head.

Boone was killed at the home of William Sikes, eight miles from here, last night. Sheriff Chapman said he was advised the killing followed an argument over the marriage of Boone's 18-year-old sister-in-law, and the daughter of Sikes, to the 48-year-old Hodges.

Hodges and his son were injured in the fight, but were able to go to their home. Boone's funeral will be held here tomorrow. No arrests have been made.

The elder Hodges married Sikes' daughter several weeks ago.

Father Held for Refusing

Doctors Claim Man Forbade Necessary Measures

Medical Aid to Dying Girl

Wewoka, Okla., November 8.—(AP) Accused of having permitted his small daughter, Hilda, to die without medical attention, Harry Freer, 35, was held for trial on a charge of manslaughter at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing here today. Bond was set at $5,000.

Dr. Guy Van Sandt, Wewoka physician, testified the child's parents told him they trusted in prayer to save her.

The physician said he advised the use of diphtheria antitoxin as the only hope of saving Hilda's life, but that Freer refused.

Dr. George Hunter, county health officer, testified he had urged medical treatment and the defendant answered that "if Hilda got medicine, the rest of the children would go hungry."

Freer testified Dr. Van Sandt left him under the impression that medicine could not be guaranteed to save the child's life, but added later that he did not believe he would have consented to give his daughter medical treatment under any circumstances.

and that he called the physician only under the pressure of the law.

Homer Bishop, county attorney, asked the defendant to explain why he had failed to give his child medical treatment when he knew her life was at stake, but hired an attorney for himself when his own life was not in danger. Freer did not give a direct answer to the question.

Freer and his wife both testified that it had been revealed to them and their friends that the child would not live, and that the little girl said she was going to die.

QUEEN OF SPAIN REACHES LONDON TO VISIT MOTHER

London, November 8.—(AP)—More

ceremony than usual featured the arrival tonight of Queen Victoria, of Spain, bringing her two daughters, Infanta Beatriz, 20, and Infanta Maria Cristina, 18, on her annual visit to her mother, Princess Beatrice, at Kensington palace.

Spanish ambassador, Merry Del Val, accompanied the royal family from Dover to London, where they were met at the Victoria station by Queen Mary, the Princess of Wales and Princess Beatrice.

Mayfair has been discussing this visit of the Spanish queen for weeks, attaching more than ordinary importance to it in view of rumors that the engagement of one of her daughters may be announced when they return to Spain. This has not been confirmed officially.

The two queens exchanged affectionate greetings tonight while the Prince of Wales talked with the infanta. Her most Catholic majesty received an enthusiastic welcome from a large gathering of ladies of the Spanish colony, who presented the visiting royalty with bouquets. The crowd heartily cheered the two queens as they drove off to Buckingham and Kensington palaces.

HOTEL OPERATOR IS AWARDED $6,610 BY FEDERAL JURY

Judgment in the sum of $6,610 was awarded the plaintiff by a federal jury here Friday in the suit of H. A. C. Smith, operator of the Martinique hotel here, against the Jones Mercantile Company, of Canton, Ga. He sued for breach of contract, charging that the defendant company had forced him to vacate the hotel after less than four months of a 44-month lease had expired.

The grounds of the ejection as given by the defendant was that the hotel had not been properly operated. Smith sued for $15,000. He was represented by Mac Ashill, of the firm of Watkins, Ashill & Watkins, and W. A. McClain, Clem Powers, of the firm of Jones, Evans, Powers & Jones, represented the defendant.

The suit was tried in federal court since Smith is a Britisher by birth, having been born in India, the son of a British army officer. The hotel man formerly served in the British navy.

GUATEMALA DIGS OUT OF VOLCANIC DEPOSIT

Full List of Victims of Eruption Never Will Be Known.

BY CHARLES NUTTER, Associated Press Staff Writer.
Guatemala City, November 8.—Northern Guatemala, which owes its economic life largely to the quality of coffee it produces, today was slowly recovering from the staggering blow dealt by the latest eruption of the volcano Santa Maria this week.

Although the mountain has temporarily stopped dealing death and devastation, those natives who escaped alive from its smothering gases still are in a constant state of trepidation for fear of a new outbreak. Estimates as to the total casualties range from 300 to 700, and the real total probably will never be known accurately since scores at least were cremated by the red hot lava which poured over them. Although smaller in scale than the disaster of 1902 in the Island of Martinique when poisonous gases wiped out a beautiful city and brought death to about 30,000 the Santa Maria was similar. Most of the casualties resulted from the sulphuric gases which poured from the new crater for the lava moved slowly and caught only a few unfortunate trapped on islands between moving streams of the liquid rock.

An inspection of the disaster zone such as this correspondent made today from an airplane flying here from Mexico gave a hazy but the only safe view of the extent of the disaster. Vegetation has been blighted for miles around by the terrific heat.

Santa Maria itself, the stately landmark of north Guatemala which was ripped open by the formation of a new crater called Santiago, was almost invisible under the mixture of storm clouds with ash-laden smoke and angry steam which poured from the crater.

Although the peak was shut off from view the ugly lava could be seen streaming down its sides and pouring into the deep canyons which scar the countryside. Even above the noise of the motor could be heard an occasional roar of the subterranean disturbance and the air for thousands of feet above one side of the crater was filled with choking fumes of sulphur, brimstone and ashes.

The ashes as they settled on the blighted vegetation gave the impression of the fall of a heavy gray snow following a killing frost. The lava was dune-colored and slightly glowing. It moved with a certain majesty down the beds of streams from which steam rose in slow columns when the hot lava encountered water.

Even from the airplane bodies could be seen lying where men and women had dropped. The poisonous gases from the interior of the earth had flared high into the air and then settled back over the surface of the earth, killing all human and plant life which they touched. Some of the bodies cannot be recovered yet because they are on small hills which still are surrounded by a semi-molten mass.

SEPARATE AGREEMENT WITH GERMANY SEEN

Direct Reparations Payments Expected to Be Arranged by Christmas.

BY FREDERICK KUH, United News Staff Correspondent.
Berlin, November 8.—A separate agreement between the United States and Germany whereby the latter will make direct reparations payments to Washington may possibly be concluded before Christmas and almost certainly before the second Hague conference.

Edwin C. Wilson, first secretary of the United States embassy in Paris, arrived here on cable orders from the state department to help conclude the negotiations.

Wilson, who acted as an observer for the United States at the Hague conference in August, will co-operate with United States Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman in conducting the negotiations on behalf of Washington.

He paid a formal visit this forenoon to the German foreign office, where it was understood he conferred with government officials including Karl Ritter, who will represent Germany in the negotiations. Wilson's first official move will be the delivery of the United States draft of the treaty to the German government. The draft will be the basis of reparations discussions.

The Washington-Berlin agreement will reflect the American government's "benevolent aloofness" from the Young plan and international bank and financial organizations. Germany's refusal to link reparations with inter-allied debts.

The most difficult point confronting the negotiations will be presumably the insertion of a clause pertaining to possible revision of payments. A clause similar to that embodied in the Young plan will not be included in the separate pact.

The Young plan revision clause permits Germany to stop all or part of her reparations payments if it is considered their continuance would jeopardize Germany's currency or economic system. In such case a special committee of the international bank would be convened to examine the German demand for a moratorium and report its findings to the creditor governments.

Since the United States will not participate officially in the international treaty it is understood the new bilateral treaty will contain a special provision authorizing Germany to suspend payments for two years on six months' notice.

The American government apparently received at least $750,000 in cash bribes and expensive gifts for his family from Ferrari.

a flavor YOU'LL favorPrince of Wales Will Entertain English Heroes

London, November 8.—(P)—The heroes of the British empire, the men who wear the Victoria Cross, will dine as guests of the Prince of Wales in the royal gallery of the house of lords tomorrow night.

These men, from all quarters of the empire, who dared death on a hundred battlefields with courage that stood above the courage of armies of their countrymen, are now having their lives as fishermen, clerks, factory hands, schoolmasters, businessmen and lawyers.

Many of them are so poor that their fares to London had to be paid by subscription.

Three hundred and twenty "V. C.'s," as they are called, will dine with the prince at a banquet where the seating is to be arranged by lot. Even the humblest private may sit on the right or left of the prince.

There are 407 V. C.'s living, but many of them were not able to make the trip to London from far distant quarters of the empire. The decoration itself carries with it extraordinary privileges, including the right to a salute from the highest officers of the British army, even from a field marshal the Prince of Wales himself.

The youngest V. C. is Sergeant J. I. Ricketts, 28, of New Foundland, and the oldest, Lieutenant Colonel J. H. Reynolds, 85. The table will be decorated with Flanders poppies.

NEW YORK STATE BANK EXAMINER GOES TO PRISON

New York, November 8.—(P)—The massive doors of Tombs prison tonight clanged behind Frank H. Warder, sentenced today to five to ten years for taking a $10,000 bribe while he was state superintendent of banks to overlook frauds that wrecked the City Trust Company for $5,000,000 last February.

Sentence was imposed after Justice Tompkins had denied three defense motions to set aside the verdict. Indictments are pending against Francis X. Mancuso, former judge and chairman of the City Trust board, and six other directors, and criminal proceedings are pending against two less prominent officials of the bank.

They are accused of conspiring with the late Francesco M. Ferreri, president of the bank, to bleed the institution white. Warder withheld state audits of the books. In the trial in which Warder was convicted last Tuesday, the state contended that he had received at least $750,000 in cash bribes and expensive gifts for his family from Ferrari.

MEDICAL SCHOOL JOINS OTHER UNITS IN HAITIAN STRIKE

Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, November 8.—(P)—Students of the National Medical college left their classes this morning in sympathetic support of the strike which has been under way for a week in the agricultural school. The movement was joined yesterday by students of the National Law school and of the School of Applied Sciences.

The first disorder in the strike came last night when about 400 persons, including some students, paraded through the residential district and stoned the residence of Mr. Freeman, chief of the agricultural service. Fourteen students were arrested and released on parole.

Leaders of the student movement are endeavoring to form a national student association to induce government ministers to join the strike, and to enlist the sympathy of students in Latin America. One of their leaders is Justine Sam, a son of President Sam, who was killed by a mob in 1915.

GIBLIN RESIGNS TO END FLORIDA JUDGESHIP ROW

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., November 8.—(P)—The legal battle waged for the past several months between Judge Vincent C. Giblin and Judge George W. Teider, both holding office in the Broward county circuit, was terminated today with the announcement that Governor Carlton had accepted Giblin's resignation.

The state supreme court, to whom the contest between the two judges had been taken, decided last week that both of them were qualified to hold office.

The court's decision brought about a situation with two judges holding office legally where provision had been made for but one. Both Giblin and Teider had been vigorous in their contention as to the right to the position. Giblin's resignation was submitted to the chief executive in West Palm Beach last night, it was learned when the announcement of acceptance was made today.

HOOVER WILL SEE MIDDIES BATTLE GEORGETOWN TEAM

Washington, November 8.—(P)—President Hoover will enjoy his first football game since he took office tomorrow at the Navy-Georgetown game in Annapolis.

Although a football fan, the president has had no opportunity to see a game until this time. He will sit on the Navy side.

The trip to Annapolis will be made in White House automobiles and the party will include only members of his immediate official family at the executive offices.

A brief military ceremony will be held in his honor on arrival at the naval academy, after which he will go to the home of Rear Admiral J. S. Robinson to be received formally by Secretary Adams.

The last football game the president saw was that between Stanford University and the University of Washington shortly after his election last fall.

Dr. John C. Fant, Mississippi State College Head, Dies

Columbus, Miss., November 8.—(P)—Dr. John Clayton Fant, for nine years president of Mississippi State College for Women, died here today from complications following an operation for appendicitis last Sunday.

Dr. Fant's leadership in public education reaches back more than a quarter century when from 1896 to 1910 he was in active charge of the growth and development of the public school system of Meridian. In 1920 he succeeded the late Governor Henry L. Whitfield as president of the state teachers' college. The death of Dr. Fant came at 1:05 o'clock today from a morning relapse that affected his heart. The college president had been in bad health since the death of his wife two years ago.

VETERAN A. B. & C. OFFICIAL STRICKEN, DIES IN AMBULANCE

Tampa, Fla., November 8.—(P)—Claude Ivan Allen, Sr., 57, Jacksonville, for 25 years general agent of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad, died last night in an ambulance after being stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage on a business street. He had been in town only a few hours. The body will be sent this afternoon to Waycross, Ga., for burial tomorrow. Besides his widow he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Varner, Birmingham, Ala., and two sons, J. A. Allen, of Jacksonville, and C. I. Allen, Jr., of Lake Wales, Fla.

POLICE SEARCH FOR MISSING CHICAGO LAWYER

Chicago, November 8.—(P)—Search was begun today for Louis I. Gottlieb, 54, lawyer and mortgage loan operator, simultaneously with the announcement by his attorneys that a preliminary investigation indicated Gottlieb's customers had suffered losses approximating $500,000 through frauds.

No charges have been filed, the search having been instituted by police at the request of Gottlieb's wife and his partner, Harold Shapiro, who said he had been missing 10 days. Officers of the Prudential State Savings Bank said Gottlieb had had a large account in their bank but had withdrawn it October 25. They added they were not concerned with his disappearance.

The state's attorney ordered a search for Gottlieb when complaints of investors were brought before him.

Beans have always been good food. Van Camp experts made them better. Then we searched for the BEST Baked Beans in the world.

The search ended in the far forests of Northern Maine where old camp cooks baked their "bean hole" beans underground. Sealed in the great, iron bean pot, buried the night through in glowing embers, the fragrant forest added its tang to the layers of beans and pork, sweetened with brown sugar and molasses to make the BEST baked beans the world ever knew.

Even the "baked outdoors" flavor

Van Camp's preserved every part of this recipe, discovered how to give even the "outdoors" fragrance of the forest to this dish you can serve tonight. Tilson and Longworth Meet To Map Out House Course In Tariff Controversy

May Remain In Nominal Session On Slim Hope of Passage; Garner Hits "Gag" Tactics.

Washington, November 8.—(AP)—Plans for the house to stand by until the regular December session if necessary to consider the tariff bill were formulated today by republican leaders.

After conferences with many senators and Speaker Longworth, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican floor leader, said the house should stand in readiness to consider the measure.

Leaders of the republican-independent-democratic coalition in the senate gave renewed assurances of the prospect for passage of the bill before the December session, but regular republican leaders in the senate believed it almost impossible.

At the same time, Representative Gaffney, of Texas, a democrat, leader, in a statement issued through the democratic national committee, said that "if it were not for the straggling rule the majority leaders are able to enforce on the house of representatives, the sentiment disclosed in the senate toward the Smoot-Hawley bill would be equally manifest in our chamber."

"I observe that Mr. Tilson, the majority leader, says that the house will not accept the tariff bill as it is being revised in the senate," he added. "Mr. Tilson being from the same state as Senator Bingham and Mr. Evanson, whom the Connecticut senator camouflaged as his secretary for tariff-making purposes, might be expected to cherish the hope he voices."

"It would be an interesting test if Mr. Tilson and his other directors of administration thought in the house would permit the removal of the gag and permit the house a free expression of its desires," Tilson in announcing the house plans said that he had "no information as to what the senate is going to do."

"We have no propositions to make," he said. "We are not responsible for the delay in the tariff bill and we are not going to do anything that will interfere with the sending of the measure to conference. The house," he added, "cannot assume that the senate will not pass the bill. We do not know that the senate will not pass it."

The floor leader said the house will be ready to act in sending the bill to conference, and that it would take a "waiting attitude."

Speaker Longworth and Tilson returned to Washington from their homes in Ohio and Connecticut respectively to prepare the house program.

Giant Still Is Captured By U. S. and County Officers

A complete still-manufacturing plant was discovered by sheriff's deputies and government agents here Friday in the basement of 252 Sydney street. Quantities of sheet copper and partially completed distilling apparatus were seized. Lewis Giles, of Stone Mountain, and Jesse Franklin, of Lithonia, were arrested near the plant. In the preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Griffith Friday afternoon the agents testified that the both defendants had been found with the apparatus and they were placed under bonds of $500 each. The house was said to be the residence of G. W. St. John, who is himself at liberty under $200 bond on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

When agents asked the defendants their names some discussion ensued as to the real identity of Jesse Franklin. It later developed that deputy marshals had warrants for him on two old charges and these were served when he was brought before the commissioner. Franklin declared that they were for "closed cases" and an investigation was ordered.

The seized equipment included stills, pipes, and other machinery for the manufacture of whisky.

SENTENCED TO DEATH, SNOOK SEEKS ESCAPE

Convicted As the Slayer of Co-ed, Professor Fights Case.

Columbus, Ohio, November 8.—(AP)—Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State university professor, under sentence of death November 29 for the murder of Theora K. Hix, Ohio State co-ed, June 13 last, continued his fight for life today when his attorneys argued before the district court of appeals a motion for a new trial.

At the conclusion of the argument the court announced that it would take the case under advisement and render its decision as soon as possible.

The court also withheld action on the application for a stay of execution pending the outcome of the appeal.

The motion, however, was filed upon advice of the court with a promise to consider it in the event of a delay in reaching a decision on the motion for new trial.

E. C. Ricketts, defense attorney, argued that the most vital part of the prosecution took place before the prisoner was arraigned.

He said Snook was denied counsel; that he was forced to make an alleged confession under duress; that he was roughly treated and denied food and water, and that counsel for Snook were not permitted to see him until after they had obtained a mandamus injunction from Judge Dana F. Rylands, of the Franklin county court of common pleas.

Ricketts also charged that the subsequent alleged confession of two newspapermen was obtained during an interview arranged by Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr. Snook being awakened at midnight. He charged that sufficient time was not granted for an inquiry into Snook's mental condition, and that he was rushed to trial before strong public sentiment had had time to subside.

He claimed prejudicial error in the court's overruling of a motion for time for pathological examination of the defendant, and that because of the state of public mind at the time of the trial it was impossible to secure a fair and impartial trial.

Arthur C. Frick, another defense attorney, attacked Chester's assault upon Snook, stating there is not another case on record where a judicial officer has assaulted a prisoner in attempting to elicit information from the accused. Frick said the court also failed to condemn the "inflammatory remarks" used by the prosecutor in his concluding statement. The court did not condemn the cheering and clapping of hands that followed Chester's statement, he declared.

Chester replied for the state, denying the charges that there was "prolonged cheering" at the conclusion of the address. He said Snook was water, food and "everything else that he asked for," and that Snook did not ask for his attorneys. "He gave us to understand he was able to take care of himself and did not want attorneys," Chester said.

City Will Get Rain Today, Forecast Says

Rain is once again predicted for Atlanta today by the local weather bureau as the precipitation total for year approaches the all-time record.

Since the first of the current month rainfall in Atlanta has totaled 2.59, an excess for that period of nearly two inches. The total for the entire year to date is 62.27, an excess of 21.07 over the normal figures. The record for any single year is slightly less than 66 inches.

Tiny Terrier Will Not Jump At Races Today

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.

The eyes of the mercurial eager spectators, impatiently focused on the air races at Candler field today, will not be thrilled by the death-defying parachute jump of the little white fox terrier, whose recent antics while preparing for her stunt roused the Atlanta and Georgia humane societies to active intervention.

The humane society's interference, through Captain M. E. Benson, has proved unnecessary, as H. J. Gray, the dog's owner, and manager of Candler field, had determined that his pet should not again run the risk of breaking its highly-prized neck.

"I am very fond of my dog," said Mr. Gray to Captain Benson, Friday morning, "and when I saw city fall through the air at a dizzy rate of speed, I decided that, should I find her alive, she would never jump again."

A humane society officer, who also is a veterinarian, examined the dog thoroughly, and pronounced her to be in perfect condition. When Captain Benson arrived to make his investigation, he found the dog happily playing with her grown puppies.

Mr. Gray has given his word of honor to the humane society that the cute canine will jump no more, and the society was satisfied that such humanity and such a recent promise on his part would be more binding on him than any injunction they might take out.

The dog narrowly escaped death Wednesday, when its exhibition-type silk parachute failed to open properly, and it was dashed 1,500 feet to a landing place at the edge of Candler field. The state saw city fall through the air at a dizzy rate of speed, I decided that, should I find her alive, she would never jump again."

25 Leading Atlanta Citizens Will Meet Today To Discuss Visit of Cuban Delegation

Gathering Called By F. J. Paxon—Tolon and Kohly Speak at Chamber of Commerce Luncheon.

A meeting of some 25 prominent Atlanta citizens has been called for 12:30 o'clock this afternoon on the top floor of the Davidson-Paxon Company by F. J. Paxon to consider plans for entertaining approximately 250 Cuban visitors to Atlanta who are expected here next month on a "good will" visit to promote friendly relations between the south and the island republic.

The Cuban delegation is to accompany athletic teams here for contests with the G. M. A. Cadets and the occasion has been given added significance by the plans to have the party include prominent government officials and business leaders.

First discussed at a meeting here Wednesday, the idea was given additional impetus by the arrival here of S. H. Tolon and Luis F. Kohly, prominent Havana business and social leaders, who were entertained at luncheon Friday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce.

Enthusiastic Over Plan. Both were most enthusiastic about the plan and expressed the opinion that the idea could easily be carried out in a most successful manner. A committee of Atlanta citizens will visit Havana within the next few weeks to extend the official invitation.

Mr. Tolon stated that many persons were planning to make the trip here with the Cuban teams and that the affair could easily be expanded to give it an international significance.

He promised every co-operation to the invitation committee and declared that the Cuban government undoubtedly would send representatives, as well as the leading Havana business firms.

An extensive program already has been tentatively arranged and final plans will be formulated as soon as the membership drive of the Atlanta Post No. 1, of the American Legion, officially opened Friday at 12:30 o'clock when the largest attendance ever to take seats at a local legion luncheon was present at the Henry Grady hotel.

More than 250 plates were set by the management of the hotel, and there were many guests present in addition to the legionnaires. Enthusiasm was high, and 2,000 members is the goal set by the workers.

The drive is under the direction of Harry A. Wallerstein. He has two teams of workers under his direction who will compete for honors.

The drive will continue throughout next week, officially designated as "American Legion Week" by state and city authorities. Other functions of the week will be the formal observance of Armistice Day to be held as a huge parade crosses Five Points at 11 a. m. Monday. Tuesday the annual sale of poppies for the benefit of disabled war veterans will be held and the week will be concluded with a report luncheon on Friday.

NEW COMMITTEE TO TRY TO SETTLE WIRING PROBLEM

Another effort to effect a compromise in the electric wiring row precipitated over installations in Atlanta's new $1,000,000 city hall will be made when a special councilman committee meets at 7:30 o'clock Monday night in the ladies' offices of Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, chairman.

Council voted several days ago to settle for $1,500 to be paid to the city because the wiring used was not up to specifications laid down, but the aldermanic board rejected the proposal after Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward, offered a paper contending that under the contract the city is entitled to $4,000, the difference between the cost of grade specified and the grade used.

57 NEW CITIZENS

Foreign Born Residents Take Oath of Allegiance.

AUTHORITIES DECIDE STATUS OF BEGGARS

Only Incapacitated May Seek Alms, City and State Rule.

Professional beggars are barred from solicitation of funds on the streets of Atlanta by order of James L. Beavers, chief of police, but the blind and maimed persons and those having permits issued under the state law by the county ordinary are not molested either in begging or in selling small articles, it was explained Friday.

The police department has no authority to molest persons who are infirm, aged, physically unfit to earn a livelihood, blind or otherwise maimed and incapacitated if the person peddles any article on the streets, it was stated Friday night by George M. Napier, attorney-general.

State laws permit peddling under such circumstances, although outright solicitation of alms is barred. The matter is largely discretionary with the ordinary who may issue permits to any person he believes entitled to such consideration, it was pointed out.

Professional mendicants have been run off the streets, Mr. Beavers declared, but the others are protected by state laws and have a right to sell their wares.

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale several days ago asked Chief Beavers to move against the beggars in an effort to clear the streets after the Community Chest and allied charitable organizations assured him that all those who are actually in need of assistance would be cared for by them.

Mr. Beavers declared he has co-operated as far as his jurisdiction extends, but that he has not acted against the poor peddlers who are protected by state laws.

The Legion of Justice, through the office of the major state of Georgia, Friday released resolutions commending Mr. Beavers for his attitude in the matter, and for protecting those who cannot help themselves.

All-Newspaper Wedding Unites Local Girl, Mate

Miss Ruth Elizabeth Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Palmer, of 245 Dodd avenue, S. W., was the central figure in an all-newspaper wedding which took place in Fresno, Calif., Thursday night. She was the bride.

The wedding ceremony was held in a newspaper office, was performed by a newspaperman, was witnessed by an assemblage of 50 newspapermen, and the bride and groom are both members of the newspaper family.

Now Miss Palmer is Mrs. S. H. Anderson, wife of the Fresno Bee circulation manager.

The ceremony was read by the Rev. Charles L. Abbott, an editor on the Bee. The maid of honor was Miss Madeline Berdot, an employee of the paper, and the best man was R. W. Millard, advertising manager. Music was furnished by Miss Minnie Marshall, music editor, and C. Aaron King, a Bee radio singer.

Mrs. Anderson, 25, was born and reared in Atlanta, her father and mother coming here from Decatur, Ala., 27 years ago. She received her education at Commercial High and was prominently connected with the Y. W. C. A., being president last year of the Business Women's Club. She was connected with The Constitution for a year in a circulation contest, and went to California in August of this year to conduct a similar contest in the city where she met Mr. Anderson.

Her father is head of the Palmer Loan Company.

Mr. Anderson went to Fresno from Timmonsville, S. C. The young couple will visit Grant National park and other interesting points on their honeymoon.

PERRY THREATENS FIGHT TO ASSIST STATE'S FARMERS

Reports reaching the Georgia public service commission are that Florida officials are prosecuting Georgia farmers who deliver their products in Florida in violation of the motor carrier act in that state, although 500 deliveries in Georgia without complying with the Georgia law.

"We are not considering anything along the line of reprisal," Mr. Perry said, "but we are going to see that Florida people operating trucks in Georgia obey our laws just as residents of the state are required to do. If necessary we are going to send special men to cities along the border for the purpose of checking up on the situation and starting prosecutions against violators."

2 SMALL HOLDUPS NET BANDITS $80 AND DIAMOND RING

Two small hold-ups were reported at police headquarters Friday morning and last night the bandits involved still were at large.

The first occurred at the intersection of Boulevard and Belt Line railroad, a short time after dark Thursday, when B. H. Gazaway, of 1075 Boulevard, S. E., was robbed of $50 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $175, by two young men. The pair, who were well dressed, accosted Gazaway from an automobile, the victim reported.

The second affair took place early Friday morning, when two shabbily dressed men entered the store of I. Zakheim, at 801 Cherokee avenue, S. E., and rifled the cash drawer of approximately $30. They took the money at the point of a pistol and made their escape in a shabby coupe.

Logan Williamson, Broker Here 22 Years, To Move to St. Louis

Logan Williamson, well-known Atlanta business man and club member, who has conducted a flour and feed brokerage firm here for 22 years, will leave shortly for St. Louis, where he will make his home with his family, taking over management of the Always Ahead Milling Corporation of that city.

Mr. Williamson's plans to leave Atlanta were necessitated by the recent death of his stepfather, E. C. Andrews, of St. Louis, who was president and principal owner of the mill. Mr. Williamson will assume his new duties as vice president of the mill.

Logan Williamson, Jr., who will accompany his mother and father to St. Louis, has resigned his position with the Fourth National bank and accepted a place with the First National Bank of St. Louis. The family plans to leave here November 15.

Mr. Williamson is a native of Nashville, Tenn., coming to Atlanta in 1907 to open a brokerage office here, in which business he has been engaged in this city for 22 years. He had offices in the Candler and the Healey buildings. He has been a member of the Piedmont Driving Club for the past 21 years and was a member of the Capital City and Atlanta Athletic Clubs until a few years ago.

The above map indicates Georgia's cotton production, in bales, for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929, the latter figures being based on the estimates announced Friday by the United States department of agriculture. The divisions shown are crop reporting districts established by the department and are not the same as the congressional districts.

Probable outturn of the Georgia cotton crop is placed at 1,340,000 bales (500 pounds gross weight), or 40,000 bales above indicated production in the report of one month ago. This figure is based on reports from about 1,500 crop correspondents and ginners well distributed over the state, covering yield per acre, per cent of the crop picked and ginned, per cent of the acreage abandoned, and other material available, as of November 1.

Except for local rains in the northern territory about the 20th, weather during October was generally favorable over the state for harvesting operations until the rains of the last few days in the month. Picking and ginning were carried on at peak rush during the period from October 10 to 20. Picking in the southern half of the state was practically completed by middle October and many fields of stalks have been turned under.

Indicated production by sections points to practically the same as 1928

60 per cent more than was ginned last year.

Upon the 3,831,000 acres for harvest (preliminary estimate) the indicated yield per acre would approximate 161 pounds, as compared with final estimated yield of 132 pounds last season, 154 pounds in 1927, and 180 pounds in 1928. Production in 1928 was 1,020,000 bales; in 1927, 1,100,000; in 1926, 1,496,000.

The census report shows 1,031,000 running bales of the Georgia crop ginned prior to November 1, compared with 754,000 bales last year, 1,009,000 in 1927, 1,102,000 in 1926, and 1,114,000 in 1925.

Indicated production for the United States is 15,008,000 standard bales as against 14,785,000 in 1927, 12,956,000 in 1927, and 17,977,000 bales in 1926. Census ginnings to November 1 amounted to 10,898,000 running bales, compared with 10,102,000 last year, 9,827,000 in 1927, and 11,254,000 bales to that date in 1926. Final

Washington, November 8.—(AP)—The census bureau announced today that of the 1929 crop, including 368,751 round bales counted as half bales, had been ginned prior to November 1.

To November 1 last year a total of 10,162,482 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, had been ginned. In 1927 a total of 9,920,846 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, had been ginned prior to November 1.

The above map indicates Georgia's cotton production, in bales, for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929. The latter figures being based on the estimates announced Friday by the United States department of agriculture.

The divisions shown are crop reporting districts established by the department and are not the same as the congressional districts.

Probable outcome of the Georgia cotton crop is placed at 1,340,000 bales (500 pounds gross weight), or 10,000 bales above indicated production in the report of one month ago.

This figure is based on reports from about 1,500 crop correspondents and ginners who distributed over the state, covering yield per acre, per cent of the crop picked and ginned, per cent of acreage abandoned, and other material available, as of November 1.

Except for local rains in northern territory about the 20th, weather during October was generally favorable over the state for harvesting operations until the rains of the last few days in the month. Picking and ginning were carried on at peak rush during the period over northern Georgia.

Picking in the southern half of the state was practically completed by middle October and many fields of stalks have been turned under.

Indicated production by sections points to practically the same as 1928 butturnout in north Georgia, while in the mid-state area an increase of about 10 to 40 per cent over season's average yield is reported. The southern part of the state has made about 60 per cent more than was ginned last year.

Upon the 3,851,000 acres for harvest (preliminary estimate) the indicated yield per acre would approximate 166 pounds, as compared with final estimated yield of 132 pounds last season, 154 pounds in 1927, and 180 pounds in 1928. Production in 1928 was 1,030,000 bales; in 1927, 1,100,000; in 1926, 1,436,000.

The census report shows 1,031,000 running bales of the Georgia crop ginned prior to November 1, compared with 784,000 bales last year, 1,000,000 in 1927, 1,102,000 in 1926, and 1,114,000 in 1925.

Indicated production for the United States is 15,009,000 standard bales as against 14,478,000 last year, 12,936,000 in 1927, and 17,977,000 bales in 1926. Census ginnings to November 1 amounted to 10,890,000 running bales, compared with 10,162,000 last year, 9,927,000 in 1927, and 11,254,000 bales to that date in 1926. Final total ginnings for the season will depend upon whether the various factors affecting harvesting of that portion of the crop still in the field prove to be more or less favorable than usual.

The above map indicates Georgia's cotton production, in bales, for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929, the latter figures being based on the estimates announced Friday by the United States department of agriculture. The divisions shown are crop reporting districts established by the department and are not the same as the congressional districts.

Probable outturn of the Georgia cotton crop is placed at 1,340,000 bales (500 pounds gross weight), or 40,000 bales above indicated production in the report of the month ago. This figure is based on reports from about 1,500 crop correspondents and ginners well distributed over the state, covering yield per acre, per cent of crop picked and ginned, per cent of acreage abandoned, and other material available, as of November 1.

Except for local rains in northern territory about the 30th, weather during October was generally favorable over the state for harvesting operations until the rains of the last few days in the month. Picking and ginning were carried on at peak rush during the latter part of the month. Picking in the southern half of the state was practically completed by middle October and many fields of cotton stalks have been turned under.

Indicated production by sections points to practically the same as 1928 outturn in north Georgia, while in the middle and southern sections of about 40 per cent over last season's very poor yields is reported. The southern part of the state has made about 60 per cent more than was ginned last year.

Upon the 3,851,000 acres for harvest (preliminary estimate) the indicated yield per acre would approximate 160 pounds, as compared with final estimated yield of 132 pounds last season, 154 pounds in 1927, and 180 pounds in 1926. Production in 1925 was 1,030,000 bales; in 1927, 1,100,000; in 1926, 1,496,000.

The census report shows 1,031,000 running bales of the Georgia crop ginned prior to November 1, compared with 784,000 bales last year, 1,009,000 in 1927, 1,102,000 in 1926, and 1,114,000 in 1925.

Indicated production for the United States is 15,009,000 standard bales as against 14,478,000 last year, 12,956,000 in 1927, and 17,977,000 bales in 1926. Census ginnings to November 1 are amounting to 10,899,000 running bales, compared with 10,162,000 last year; 9,921,000 in 1927; and 11,254,000 bales to that date in 1926. Final total ginnings for the season will depend on whether the various factors affecting harvesting of that portion of the crop still in the field prove to be more or less favorable than usual.

Washington, November 8.—(AP)—The census bureau announced today that 10,889,314 running bales of cotton had been picked in 1929, against 751 round bales counted as half bales, had been ginned prior to November 1.

To November 1 last year a total of 10,162,482 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, had been ginned. In 1927 a total of 9,920,846 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, had been ginned prior to November 1.

Ginning by states were:

The above map indicates Georgia's cotton production, in bales, for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929, the latter figures being based on preliminary estimates announced Friday by the United States department of agriculture. The divisions shown are for crop reporting districts established by the department and are not the same as the congressional districts.

Probable outturn of the Georgia cotton crop is placed at 1,340,000 bales (500 pounds gross weight), or 10,000,000 pounds above indicated production in the report one month ago. This figure is based on reports from about 1,500 crop correspondents and ginners well distributed over the state, covering yield per acre, per cent of the crop picked and ginned, per cent of acreage abandoned, and other material available, as of November 1.

Except for local rains in northern territory about the 20th, weather during October was generally favorable over the state for harvesting operations until the rains of the last few days in the month. Picking and ginning were carried on at peak rush during the period over northern Georgia. Picking in the southern half of the state was practically completed by middle October and many fields of stalks have been turned under.

Indicated production by sections points to practically the same as 1928 outturn in north Georgia, while in the middle-state area an increase of about 40 per cent over last season's very poor yields is reported. The southern part of the state has made about 60 per cent more than was ginned last year.

Upon the 3,851,000 acres for harvest (preliminary estimate) the indicated yield per acre would approximate 160 pounds, as compared with final estimated yield of 132 pounds last season, 154 pounds in 1927, and 190 pounds in 1926. Production in 1925 was 1,030,000 bales; in 1927, 1,100,000; in 1926, 1,496,000.

The census report shows 1,031,000 running bales of the Georgia crop ginned prior to November 1, compared with 784,000 bales last year, 1,009,000 in 1927, 1,102,000 in 1926, and 1,114,000 in 1925.

METHODISTS HEAR ANNUAL REPORTS

Increase of $9,516 Over 1928 Total for Conference Work Is Revealed.

Macon, Ga., November 8.—(AP)—The annual report of the treasurer, presented today to the South Georgia Methodist conference, showed an increase of $9,516 over the 1928 total in the amount of money raised for general and conference work.

J. B. Wright, of Cairo, treasurer, announced that during the past year $97,239 had been raised for conference work and $59,153 for general work, the sums representing respectively 81 per cent and 68 per cent of the assessments laid on the conference. The report was followed by an appeal from Bishop W. B. Beauchamp for a still greater effort by pastors and presiding elders.

New Class Admitted.

The conference today admitted a class of young men on trial into its connection. If their work is satisfactory after two years' service they will be admitted to full membership. The class included William F. Smith and Lewis Spivey, of the Cordele district; Frank Gilmore and Elmon R. Lewis, Macon district; Jacob L. Hillis, Savannah district; James F. Jackson, Thomasville district; and Leonard H. Cochran and Royal Page, Valdosta district. The reports of other of the younger preachers now on trial brought commendation from Bishop Beauchamp, who urged that "some of the older ones take them as examples."

Rev. J. E. Bentley, of the Columbus district, was selected to the order of deacon, and eleven men were given elders' orders. They are W. E. McTier, W. W. Whaley, J. E. Buchanan, R. L. Harris, C. F. Barton, W. M. Hobbs, R. C. Sampley, Roy McTier, J. G. Willis, W. G. Sawyer and A. L. Green.

Orphans' Home Reports.

Reports were presented also on the orphans' home supported by the conference, and on the Macon district, the latter showing 411 admissions to the church on profession of faith and 682 by transfer in the past year. Money raised by the district also showed a substantial increase over figures for the previous year.

Memorials to the general conference pertaining to authority of the bishops and their assignments to areas, were discussed at length today. The conference recommended the building of episcopal residences in strategic cities and will submit this matter to the general conference.

W. Clifton Carson, convicted Thursday of larceny after trust of $1,500 from Mrs. Ida T. Roberts, of Marietta, Friday was sentenced by Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, to serve a term of from two to three years.

Judge Howard disregarded a jury recommendation that Carson be punished as for a misdemeanor. Solicitor General John A. Boykin has set Carson and his father, Sturm W. Tri-Motor Ford Arrives for Air Carnival

Above is shown the tri-motored Ford of Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., which landed here Friday with a group of Pitcairn officials, visiting Atlanta for the air races, to be held at Candler field today and Sunday. Those shown in the picture are, left to right, James Parker, pilot; Ralph S. Westing, business manager for Pitcairn Aviation, Inc.; M. D. Wagner, mechanic; H. A. Elliott, Pitcairn operations manager; Mrs. Elliott; Mrs. C. P. Ryman; C. P. Ryman, assistant business manager for Pitcairn, and Fermon Stone, Pitcairn air mail pilot.

HELP FOR SCHOOLS IS EXPECTED SOON

State relief in the financial crisis of Georgia public schools is expected within the next few days.

Although no official announcement has been made it was authoritatively learned Friday that Governor L. G. Hardman is negotiating for a loan of $800,000, or more, with which the state may meet a portion, at least, of its past due obligations to the county school systems.

The governor, it was said, has been in conference with Atlanta bankers, and is expecting definite information this week or early next week. It is thought that the money will be forthcoming in the near future.

Information at the capitol was that Governor Hardman had hesitated in securing the loan because of a technicality in the law. No appropriation was available this year with which interest might be paid, and interest payable this year could not legally be paid out of next year's funds.

The attorney general's office, it was learned, cleared this difficulty by ruling that the interest on a state note, though made this year, would be payable next year if the note was. Under this ruling, it was said, the governor is proceeding with negotiations for the money.

Under the Georgia law he has an unexhausted borrowing power of $800,000. This, it is thought, is the amount which will be borrowed.

Laymen Decline To Stop Albany Sunday Movies

Albany, Ga., November 8.—(AP)—Sunday motion picture shows are in prospect for Albany next Sunday as a result of announcement today by laymen representing various Albany churches that no legal action would be taken to stop them, pending action next week of the American Legion.

The laymen, after a meeting last night, announced today that decision against court proceedings was taken in the belief that the full membership of the Legion, meeting next Thursday, would not support the Legion executive committee's sponsorship of Sunday shows. The decision against court action was taken in the hope that the Legion's sponsorship would be withdrawn.

HART COMMENDED FOR HEROIC RESCUE OF SCANDIA CREW

Savannah, Ga., November 8.—(AP)—While the patrol boat "Forward" was out at sea today doing coast guard duty, a tribute was here for its commander, Boatswain William C. Hart, for his heroic work in rescuing 24 members of the crew of the Danish steamer Scandia which went aground last September on a reef in the Bahamas.

Boatswain Hart's commendation came from Rear Admiral F. C. Bilard, of Washington, commandant of the coast guard.

Heavy seas were running when word of the Scandia's distress reached here, the "Forward" went to the rescue, returned to port and landed the shipwrecked crew and put them to sea again to stand by the Scandia.

Water was pumped into the auxiliary boilers of the Scandia by the "Forward" while efforts were made to free the ship.

In 1928 Hart was awarded a gold life-saving medal for rescue of the crew of a ship which went aground off the north coast of the United States.

He explained the attitude of the southern congressmen and senators in their fight against the new tariff law, fully justifying the position they took.

FRIDAY AIR MAIL

From—New York 8:00 a. m. Chicago 8:30 a. m. New Orleans 9:00 a. m. Miami 9:30 a. m. On Time—7:30 p. m. Chicago 11:30 a. m. New Orleans 9:30 a. m. Miami 9:30 a. m.

Per—New York On Time—7:30 p. m. Chicago 11:30 a. m. New Orleans 9:30 a. m. Miami 9:30 a. m. Southbound plane from Chicago was forced down by bad weather at Calhoun. Northbound plane from New Orleans held at Birmingham by bad weather.

This is one of Atlanta's biggest days, from an aeronautical point of view, and aviation enthusiasts are fervently hoping that the elements will be kind and that the Atlanta air races will get under way this afternoon under favorable weather conditions. If the weather is good a splendid crowd can be expected out this afternoon—there being no major football team in action in this vicinity—but Sunday afternoon's throng should rival even the tremendous crowds that greeted the Ford tour planes during their two-day visit here.

Manager William B. Hartsfield has mapped out a well-rounded program for the meet and while he has made no definite announcement as to the arrival of well-known pilots from other parts he is expecting a number of them, provided, again, that the weather is good enough to enable them to fly into Atlanta. But even if the renowned visitors are unable to compete, there is ample home talent to provide plenty of thrills for the most finicky aviation fan. Doug Davis' so-called Mystery Ship is a whole show in itself and it is a certainty that the flashy little Travel Air will command the major share of attention during the races. There will be two tri-motor jobs on the field during the show—a Fokker, the famous Question Mark, and a Ford, owned by Pitcairn Aviation, Inc. and flown here Friday with officials of the company.

It is generally expected that Boole Blevins, veteran Atlanta pilot who has competed in air meets in this vicinity for years, will be unable to enter any of the events this year. Blevins had planned to put his Krider-Reisner Challenger in the OX-5 race, but the ship now is on the shelf, following a forced landing last Sunday a week ago which wrenched out the landing gear and the lower wings. The ship, which is one of the fastest OX-5 jobs in this section.

American tourists furnish 75 per cent of the patronage on European air lines, Captain Cyril Turner, foreign representative of the Aviation Corporation, said during a recent visit in New York. The reason for this large percentage, Captain Turner said, is explained in the fact that continental European air lines accommodate their schedules to facilitate the average tourist's aim—to cover as much territory in the least time necessary. It is not to be interpreted as an indication that Europeans are less air-minded, he said.

Captain Turner, discussing air transportation, said that American and European air lines differ in operating methods. He placed the European lines in a much better position as to actual earnings from passenger carrying. This, he explained, is due to the fact that speed is demanded of American lines, while European air lines are able to conserve themselves primarily with pay loads. Where America has several cabin planes of small passenger capacity and high speed, European planes of approximately the same power will carry 25 to 40 per cent more passengers and 20 per cent lower speed ranges.

Children's Xmas Party is planned by motor club

Plans for a Christmas tree party to be given at the Georgia Children's Home Society by members of the Atlanta Motor Club are being formulated, according to announcement Friday. The celebration is to be on the afternoon of December 24.

F. A. Maffett, W. R. Bean and Charlie Cook were appointed on the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair.

At the meeting of directors Thursday, Ben S. Read and Cherry L. Emerson were elected as directors of the Atlanta Motor Club.

Honorary Frats at Davidson give bids to Georgians

Three Georgia boys, one of Atlanta, have been offered bids by honorary fraternities at Davidson college, at Davidson, N. C., it was learned Friday when nine of the thirteen honorary fraternities made public their list of bids.

These fraternities acknowledged outstanding ability in various fields in the selection of their men. Omicron Delta Kappa (leadership) offered bids to F. Johnston, of Jefferson, and A. H. Whittle, Atlanta. The third bid was offered to A. B. McClure, of Rabun Gap, by the Eta Sigma Phi (classical).

Plasterer caught by falling wall; both legs broken

Alvin Moody, 30-year-old plasterer, received fractures of both legs and severe cuts and bruises about the body Friday afternoon when a wall fell upon him while he was at work at Sand Springs, on the Howell road.

A fellow workman who was out of the room at the time, heard the crash, rushed to Moody's assistance and extricated him from the fallen debris. He was taken to the Grady hospital, and his condition is reported there as "not serious."

FIGHT OVER SCHOOL FIXTURES WON BY CITY

Judge Thomas Refuses To Grant Injunction in Junior High Tangle.

The city of Atlanta is at liberty to proceed in the installation of John Douglas plate H-3200 toilet fixtures in Brown, Bass and O'Keefe junior high school additions, under an order handed down Friday by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court.

Judge Thomas denied an injunction sought by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, but retained jurisdiction of the case for the purpose of aiding the city in carrying out some proper method of contamination prevention into effect.

Judge Thomas held that installation of the fixtures described in the injunction petition was authorized by city council and that the method of installation had also been authorized by council, and that the contingencies of danger were too remote to authorize a court of equity in setting aside approval given the fixtures at the hands of the architect, engineer, school board and council.

Judge Thomas said, however, that he is of the opinion that the school board should go further and provide an additional safeguard to prevent danger from any contingency, even though remote.

In its answer to the petition the city said that very few public build-

Catarrh is Serious Handicap on Victim

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing, thus preventing proper purification of the blood by the lungs and also prevents refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to diseases such as head and chest colds.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested by Nose and Throat Specialists to relieve the irritation and reduce the congestion of the mucous membrane the most effective and agreeable are those contained in the preparation known to your druggist as Runion's White Wonder Salve. Applied in the nostrils morning and night, Runion's White Wonder Salve gives quick and most delightful relief from the irritation and congestion. Clean, greaseless and absolutely stainless, Runion's Salve is a perfect example of the finest pharmaceutical art—a joy and comfort to everyone who suffers with catarrhal irritation of the nose and throat.

"a modern version"

—Remember the story of The Three Bears? Here's a modern version: A wee little Goldilocks tripped for a lark into Rich's new Toy Department... Past the china porridge bowls with nose in air, past the doll chairs and beds in disdain. Till soon she reached the bear counter. Teeny-Weeny Teddy Bear she snubbed outright; Middle-Sized Teddy Bear she passed slowly by... Then with a great big cry of delight, she pounced upon Great Big Teddy Bear, and ran all the way home with him!... (Growing Teddy Bears, $1.39, $1.95, $2.49, Second Floor.)

"Oh, Money, Money, Money!"

—"Oh, Money, Money, Money!"—our crying need! We felt that way yesterday, at least, as we wandered through Rich's... with a lone one-spot in our pocket. Then we waxed philosophical: Things are much cheaper than they were 10 years ago. And—since Uncle Sam has made money smaller—we get so much more per square inch of bill!... A Swank Money Clip caught our eye—nifty to keep tens, twenties and fifties smoothly in their proper place and order. We bought one, for $1!... (All right, laugh.)

"among the notables"

—We were among the notables in the famous Motorcade to Chattanooga this week—(traveling incognito, of course!) It was a stupendous procession, and we were flattered even to be along. You know how these things are... slow, and steam heated, and conversation-making. Something did interest us, however. Just outside Rome we saw a familiar Star and Crescent on a big furniture van. When we got back, we eagerly inquired. We learned that Rich's regularly ships furniture by truck as far as Rome, Columbus and Athens!

"like a collegiate procession"

—We stood in front of Rich's yesterday, idly watching the crowds. A man came from the Broad Street entrance staggering under a load of books. Then a streaming line came forth in rapid sequence—like a collegiate procession—men, women, girls, boys, with armful, bagful, apronsful—books, books, books! We wondered if they were holding a class inside, or an exhibition—and went in to see. The Book Shop on the Sixth Floor was having a tremendous half-price Book Sale—for early Christmas shoppers! And today, Saturday, is the Last Day!

Miss Otis Skinner's Art One of Week's Bright Spots

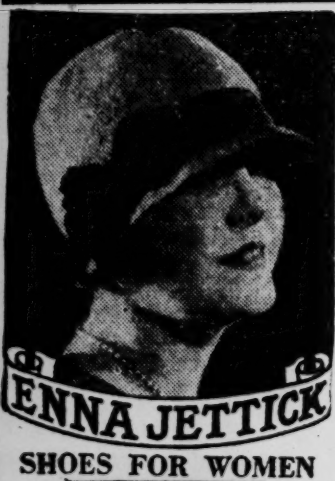

IT'S NICE to have an hour or two of real authentic art served to us on a silver platter now and then. Miss Otis Skinner's audience Monday last watched her with almost breathless delight as she made up on the stage right before their eyes, and dressed herself, for one part or another, just where they could see exactly how she did it, and everything.

It was all very adroitly done. Her entire stage wardrobe for Monday's performance could easily have been packed in the smallest of week-end suitcases, and they are making them smaller every season. She had three long sleeveless chiffon coats. I counted them. One was blue, one was green, one was black. She had also a variety of small objects—a gilt bandeau, a wig, a funny old hat, a vanity bag, a reticule, a pair of spectacles and other trifles. She slipped her green chiffon coat over the fluffy white chiffon dress she wore throughout the recital, tied the gold bandeau around her head, adjusted the spectacles, gathered up the reticule and became immediately a very amusing lady lecturer with a pronounced English accent.

SHE WORE the black chiffon coat for the Monte Carlo monologue. The wig and the funny hat once on her head, she was completely transformed into an old lady. Then she did an interesting thing. She painted one entire side of each finger red. This made her hands appear very tiny, very old. They were bewildering hands. Tremblingly, hesitatingly, they picked up imaginary money and placed it on imaginary hazards. They trembled more and more, as they lost and lost.

The audience was deeply absorbed throughout. Toward the end of the recital a funny thing happened. Miss Otis Skinner slipped on her green coat, attempted no further make-up, but seated herself country-woman-fashion on the chair. Then she began talking in what, at first, seemed to be an entirely foreign language. It was some minutes before it began to dawn on the audience that she was giving them a southern monologue and trying to imitate the southern accent.

Mrs. Reginald Fleet, in the smartest of black velvet short jacket ensemble suits and a small black velvet hat (far more becoming than such hats usually are), represented the Fine Arts Club, under whose auspices the recital was given, and welcomed us at the door of the Woman's Club theater with the most cordial smiles and handclaps. She told as many of us as possible goodbye, later on, with the same smile and the same handclap. On the latter occasion she was ably assisted by her agreeable and almost too-good-looking husband.

Mrs. Warren Wins $100 Prize In Liberty Contest

Mrs. Green Dodd Warren, prominent young Atlanta matron, won the third prize in the Liberty Picture contest sponsored by the Liberty magazine in the October 5 issue of the publication, the official announcement being made in the current issue of Liberty. Yesterday's mail brought to Mrs. Warren a check for $100 in reward for being the third in detecting the largest number of errors in the single cartoon, both neatness and ingenuity of arrangement, as well as soundness of reasoning, in the prize awards. First and second prizes in Liberty's October 5 contest were won by H. P. Walker, of Gastonia, N. C., and John Chatterton, of Clinton, Iowa, respectively. The former receiving $500 and the latter $200. Forty prizes of $5 each were awarded to various individuals throughout the country for the discovery of mistakes in the particular picture, Mrs. J. B. Shores, of 2705 Peachtree road, another Atlanta matron, being a winner in this group.

Although thrilled over her good luck, Mrs. Warren was as much surprised over the announcement as her score of friends, who had not believed her competing in the contest. Through-out yesterday she was bombarded with telephone messages of congratulations and John Chatterton, of Clinton, Iowa, telegraphed her to "believe it myself." Finding time from her innumerable social, civic and home activities, Mrs. Warren admitted that she was surprised to find she had found leisure to ponder over Liberty's mistake pictures. Even members of her own family refused to be disturbed from their pursuit of a good book or Sunday newspapers to lend assistance to her diligent search for almost undetectable errors in the clever drawings. When quizzed by a Constitution reporter, Mrs. Warren declared that never before had she won a prize of any kind, not even in a bridge game. "Truly," she said, "the check deserves a gold frame."

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

REDDY FOX LOOKS FOOLISH.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Be not too sure; it doesn't pay. Chagrin may be your lot that way.
—Reddy Fox.

What had become of Peter Rabbit? Reddy Fox didn't know. Mrs. Reddy didn't know. They walked around that little bramble tangle in the Old Pasture, looking it through and through.

It was enough. Peter Rabbit was down in there.

Peter wasn't to be seen. Neither was any trace of Peter to be found outside that bramble tangle. It was just as if he had turned into nothing at all.

"I hope you are satisfied now that he didn't come out on my side," said Mrs. Reddy somewhat sharply, after Reddy had tried in vain to find some scent left by Peter's feet.

Reddy grinned somewhat sheepishly. "Yes, my dear. I am quite satisfied," said he. Then he added, "I hope you are satisfied that Peter did not get out on my side."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Reddy. "I have been all around on your side and I cannot find the faintest scent of Peter Rabbit. But if he didn't get out on my side and he didn't get out on your side, he must still be in that bramble tangle. Yet my eyes tell me he isn't."

Reddy stood thoughtfully looking into the bramble tangle. He was thinking as well as looking. Then, without a word, he began to crawl into that bramble tangle. The brambles clutched at him and scratched him. Now and then he whined. Once or twice he yelped as a bramble pricked him very sharply. But he kept on. Mrs. Reddy watched approvingly. She knew that Reddy intended to find Peter's scent in there and follow it. He meant to find the answer to that riddle.

It was slow work and hard work and painful work. There were pas-

Banks Whitman, S. A. Cruikshank, J. R. Simms and M. Herzberg, with Mrs. Camp as chairman.

Luncheon was served to the group and gentleman of the advisory board. During the luncheon Mrs. A. McD. Wilson told of her desire to build a memorial fountain on the lawn of the Wrens' Nest.

sages through that bramble tangle big enough for Peter Rabbit to pass along easily, but they were too small for Reddy to get through without a great deal of suffering and many scratches. Now, Reddy is one of those who do not give up easily. Having set his mind on getting at the bottom of this mystery, he didn't intend to allow anything like a few scratches and a tear or two in his coat to stop him.

Presently Reddy reached the stump of a little tree in the middle of the bramble tangle. It had been a small tree, so, of course, now it was a small stump. Around it had drifted a little pile of dead leaves. On one side of it was a small rock. It was when he had reached this that Reddy understood the mystery of the disappearance of Peter Rabbit. Between that small rock and the stump was a hole, hidden by the drifted leaves. From out side the bramble tangle that hole couldn't be seen. Reddy put his black nose into that hole and sniffed. It was enough. Peter Rabbit was down in there.

Reddy's face looked the disgust he felt. It was of no use to try to dig Peter out, for the roots and the rocks were in the way. Peter was as safe for the time being, anyway, as if he were at home in the dear Old Briar-patch. Reddy turned and disgustfully smudged the way out the way he came in. Mrs. Reddy said nothing, but there was a question in her eyes.

"A hole," grunted Reddy. "A hole under that little stump. Well, we'll go home, for we can no more get Peter out of there than we can fly."

So Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy trotted off home, as disgusted-looking a pair of Foxes as ever lived. And down in the hole under the little stump in the bramble tangle, Peter Rabbit grinned as best he could, because of the pain in his leg.

The next story: "Peter Travels on Three Legs."

INSTRUMENT OF THOUGHT

Should Be Used to Supply Power for Energy to Do Things

Although language often is called the instrument of thought, a wise man has said that it is really the nutriment of thought—the atmosphere in which thought lives. It is a medium as necessary to the activity of our mental powers as the air is to our lungs.

Words are also known as brain food. It has been said that every term expressing a fact not previously known becomes so much food for the mind that absorbs it. To think new thoughts, new words are called for. Like food for the body, words are food for the mind—the brain.

Then how important it is to learn new words, so as to have new ideas. The study of words begets wisdom, power, energy. The New World Dictionary will supply one with new words for many years. Get a copy with the coupons and feed your mind. We all need more words to properly express our thoughts.—(adv.)

Always worn out—now out of a job!

HE LIVED in dread of this day... "fired." Yet he knew it was bound to happen. For months an invisible force had been stealing his strength—dulling his mind—wearing him out. And the pity was that he started business with the brightest hopes and best of health.

Many a man has gone through such an experience and lost the battle to constipation—that most relentless enemy of health and happiness. Many have constipation but do not realize it. Often it begins with headaches, sleepless nights, sallow complexions and bad breath. Too often it leads to serious disease.

But constipation can be relieved—prevented promptly. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to safely rid the system of this evil.

Only ALL-BRAN gives maximum results

It is bulk that relieves constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies bulk in generous quantity. In a part-bran product the amount of bulk is usually too small to be completely effective. That's why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN brings natural relief

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is totally different from dangerous drugs and pills whose dose must be constantly increased to be effective. It works as nature works.

A pleasant cereal. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Mix it with other cereals. Try it in soups. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. The health of the entire family can be maintained by serving ALL-BRAN in some form every day.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

JACKETS MEET UNBEATEN COMMODORES

RED AND BLACK BATTLES N. Y. U. ELEVEN TODAY

Danforth Favors Georgia
If Boys Can Reach Peak
and Play Real Football.

By Ed Danforth,
Constitution Sports Editor.
New York, November 8.—
Two of the most unusual football teams to be found on the American gridiron in the midst of a most unusual season battle tomorrow at the Yankee Stadium in what promises to be a fiery, closely fought duel. The University of Georgia, the Southern conference eleven that has conquered and faltered in at least four of the notable upsets of the season, meets
New York university, equally surprising in its strength and weakness in the eastern section.

Georgia was defeated by Oglethorpe, Florida and Tulane when expected to win and Georgia conquered Yale and North Carolina when a defeat for the Bulldogs seemed certain. Likewise, the Violet eleven lost to Fordham and Georgetown on days when victory seemed a foregone conclusion and defeated Penn State when the issue looked gloomy. No team save Georgia has defeated Yale and North Carolina;
no team save New York has beaten
Penn State.

SOME BATTLE.
Hence if Coach Harry Mehre can tighten his Bulldog machine and whip it to the pitch of power it showed against Yale and if Coach Chick Meehan can get his Violets into their stride the explosion of gridiron pyrotechnics at the stadium should be defining.

The game has been favored by the national attention attracted to Georgia by the victory over Yale. Interest also has been stimulated by unaccountable publicity attendant on the presence of a colored star on the New York university squad whose playing was seized by the yellow press as a chance for a sensational racial issue. So New Yorkers have had their attention drawn to the stadium battle, and possibly 50-000 people will attend.

Fate came to the rescue of a delicate question yesterday and settled the question of Myers playing in the New York backfield. As the through signals of the Violets at the stadium his left arm hung loose and useless from an injury in the Georgetown game. Myers is left handed and hence cannot possibly be used.

Coach Meehan has returned to the line-up he used at the beginning of the season. The line is made up of the best in the east and at least two of the backs—Lamarck and Roland—are fast and dangerous. After two weeks on the sidelines, Follet will return to the backfield, too, and the discipline may do him good.

ROUSING WORKOUT.
It was a rousing workout the Bulldogs took at the stadium this afternoon. They had been out of uniform since Wednesday and the journey actually seemed to have done them good. They frolicked about over the field as if they had nearly a bruise. Every one of them swore he felt like a million dollars and Coach Mehre's effort to select a starting line-up from the physically fittest was hampered. It took a sharp eye to detect a limp here or a man there. The tonic of the approaching game gave all of them new life.

It is pretty certain, however, that Captain Joe Boland will not start. Joe is far under weight and in spite of his protests is in no shape for a hard game. Spero Tassapoulos, the Savannah husky, will draw the starting ticket at center and Captain Boland will be held out for emergencies.

Austin Downes, of course, is definitely out and at quarterback Tom Mehre will keep Tom Moran on the bench until he sees how the Violet offense is working. Fats Bryant also is sure to watch the kick off from the sidelines. The big tackle lost a lot of weight in the Florida and Tulane games and sorely needs a little rest.

NOT SO GOOD.
The Bulldogs have not had exactly what one would call a rousing time in the metropolis. They have been quartered far from the roaring fires in the quiet home of the New York Athletic Club on Travers street. There is a view of the bay or perhaps it is the sound. But no sophomore ever got a kick out of gazing on the dream majesty of a stretch of thirty sea water.
As far as the tinselled pleasures of

DOCTORS RULE OUT DAVE MYERS

Committee of Three Surgeons Says Negro Not In Condition.

New York, November 8.—(P)—A committee of surgeons today announced that in their opinion Dave Myers, negro quarterback of the New York university football eleven, was in no condition to play against Georgia tomorrow.

The committee's announcement was made after Myers had been examined in the offices of Dr. George David Stewart, past president of the American College of Surgeons, and Dr. Edward A. King, of St. Vincent's hospital. Dr. Stewart and Dr. King, with Dr. Michael Tetelman, of the French hospital, made up the committee.

In effect, the surgeons declared that Myers had suffered a severe shoulder injury and ought not to play against Georgia for fear of possible permanent injury.

The committee's announcement follows: "Myers already has damaged severely the acromio-clavicular ligament in his left shoulder and we are of the opinion he ought not to play for fear of permanent injury."

Some days ago the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged that Myers would be kept out of the Georgia game because of his race. After much argument, pro and con, with the New York university denying the existence of a "gentleman's agreement" with Georgia that Myers would not be placed in the lineup against the southerners, the college announced that the negro star would play "if able."

In an effort to combat the avalanche of criticism that descended upon it, the university said it would ask the commercial "under the surgeons" to make an examination of Myers. On their verdict would depend whether Myers would get into the game or not.

The trainer, it was said, failed to inform a trainer during the Georgetown game last week that he suffered an injury to his shoulder. The trainer, it was said, failed to inform head coach Chick Meehan and Myers played the entire game.

Millsaps, Louisiana Poly In 6-6 Tie

Jackson, Miss., November 8.—
(United News)—The Millsaps college Majors marched for 11 first downs while Louisiana Poly Tech was making none, but the score was tied, 6-6,
at the final whistle blew here today.
Long scored for Poly Tech by intercepting a pass and tearing off 50 yards across the line. The Millsaps downfield followed a steady march downfield.

Mehre Decides On His Lineup

New York, November 8.—A changed lineup for the clash with
New York university at the Polo Grounds tomorrow was tentatively announced tonight by Coach Harry Mehre following the Bulldog workout in the stadium.

FANS OF DIXIE TURN ATTENTION TO TWO GAMES

Tech-Vandy, Kentucky-
Alabama Battles Stand
Out Today.

By Eddie Brietz,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
Chief interest of southern football fans centers today on Nashville and Montgomery, where two unbeaten conference elvens face some of the most dangerous opposition they will encounter this season.

At Nashville, Vanderbilt, one of the pre-season dark horses, meets Georgia Tech, Kentucky, another title threat, plays a stubborn and rugged Alabama eleven at Montgomery.

These two games are the high spots of a program which includes five intersectional tilts in which southern teams are entered, as well as five other conference tests, in three of which undefeated machines are scheduled.

Both ends of the conference are interested in the Louisiana State-Duke game at Durham, Louisiana State, which showed a lot of power in its warm-up contests, was stopped cold
by Arkansas last week and followers of the Tigers will use their showing against Duke as a basis for figuring just how much trouble Louisiana State can be expected to make for Tulane Thanksgiving Day.

It is pretty generally accepted that if Tulane doesn't finish the season undefeated it will be the fault of Louisiana State. The annual meeting between these two teams is always a battle for blood and a game in which past performances do not count.

The other games within the conference send the Tulane Green Wave against Auburn, Clemson against Virginia Military, North Carolina against South Carolina and Virginia Poly against Virginia.

Tennessee, North Carolina State and Sewanee step outside the conference to play Carson-Newman, Davidson and Southwestern.

The intersectional program is featured by the appearance of Georgia against New York university at New York and Maryland against Yale at New Haven. The advance does give Georgia the best chance of coming out of the south undefeated.

The University of Mississippi meets Purdue at Lafayette, Ind.; the Mississippi A. and M. team faces Michigan at Jackson and Manhattan college is en route south to visit Oglethorpe at Atlanta.

Two elvens undefeated in the association get tests in the S. I. A. A.
with the pace-setting Chattanooga Moccasins scheduled with Howard and Stetson meeting the Indians of Newberry.

Another hard-fought S. I. A. A. game is looked for when Furman and Citadel clash at Charleston. Citadel has a clean slate, but Furman met the hands of Chattanooga earlier in the season.

Spring Hill, the other S. I. A. A. leader, is not scheduled today.

WILDCATS HEAVIER.
According to the starting lineups issued by the rival coaches here tonight, the Kentucky eleven will outweigh the pride of Alabama eight or nine pounds to the man in the line, while the respective backfields will be more equal as far as weight is concerned. From end and, Kentucky's back will average 202 pounds, with lightest man, George Yates, right end, weighing 191 pounds. Baughman, the other end, weighs 195 pounds. Four of the seven Kentucky linemen weigh 200 pounds or more.

The weatherman has promised nothing short of rain, but despite this disagreeable thought for a hang-over the seven Kentucky linemen weigh 200 pounds or more.

John Sims "Shipwreck" Kelly, the back with the twinkling feet and the power of a tractor, did not accompany the team to Montgomery because of the serious illness of his grandmother at Springfield, Ky. It is understood that the brilliant Kentucky back will remain in Kentucky until Saturday morning and come here by airplane. In the event that Kelly does not make his appearance in time to show his wares against the fabled Crimson Tide, Kentucky's offense will be slightly hampered, although Harry Gamage, coach of Kentucky, said today his team would not be broken up even if Kelly did not get into uniform.

For the first time in recent history,
the Wildcats are favored to defeat the Crimson Tide. The people here in Montgomery are not figuring on an Alabama victory. They are trying to figure out just how much the noted Kentucky team is going to defeat Alabama. These people may be counting their chickens before they hatch, but unless Kentucky shows a complete form flip-flop they should defeat Alabama here tomorrow.

DOWN IN "DUMPS."
Wallace Wade, Alabama coach, is down in the "dumps" regarding the outcome of the game. He is pessimistic for the first time in many, many years. That means that Gamage is not exactly pessimistic about the outcome, again, is a strange and pathetic frame of mind for Harry Gamage to be in. He's a coach who would rather be gloomy than any football instructor in the world.

In the event that Kelly does not start the game, Captain Will Ed Cornington will be in the breach. Carey Spicer will call the signals and Dick Richards and Tom Phipps will round out the backfield. The latter player is in good condition again and ready well for the losers.

Manhattan To Meet Petrels Here Today

Oglethorpe Eleven Faces Third Tough Foe
on Successive Saturdays—Time 2 O'Clock.

By Ben Cothran.
Entertaining at home for the second time in its football history, Oglethorpe this afternoon finds itself with a rough visitor, Manhattan college, from New York.

This is the third successive Saturday that the Birds have sailed into a tough opponent from the north and indications are that this one is going to be harder to tumble than any of them. Oglethorpe opened its stadium three weeks ago with a satisfying victory over Dayton university, went to Philadelphia and battled Villanova, the latter winning by a two-touchdown margin, and now it is just another one of those afternoons for the Petrels.

The weather being what it is, it begins to appear that lugging of the football is going to be a serious business. Rain has been extensive and, as was demonstrated in the past two days and Hermance field will be muddy if not extremely wet. That, of course, will make the going rather uncertain and the linemen are going to work hard and long.

If the sun should shine this morning and dry up the place, that would help a great deal. Oglethorpe employs the forward pass rather effectively, as was demonstrated in the Dayton game. Appling deals "em off the arm in great style. There is a young sophomore usually hanging round to catch them. His name is Syper.

BELL IS STAR.
Old man John Columbus Bell is another good receiver. When Oglethorpe starts anything in a football game you can usually find John Columbus Bell at the bottom of it. Bell toppled Tech once and at the beginning of this year he gave Georgia the works and Oglethorpe a victory.

He has played fine football all season and is a good backfield man. When he tucks the football under his arm and starts galloping down the field he usually goes somewhere with it. He bumps hard and fast and bounces off tacklers as though he were composed largely of rubber.

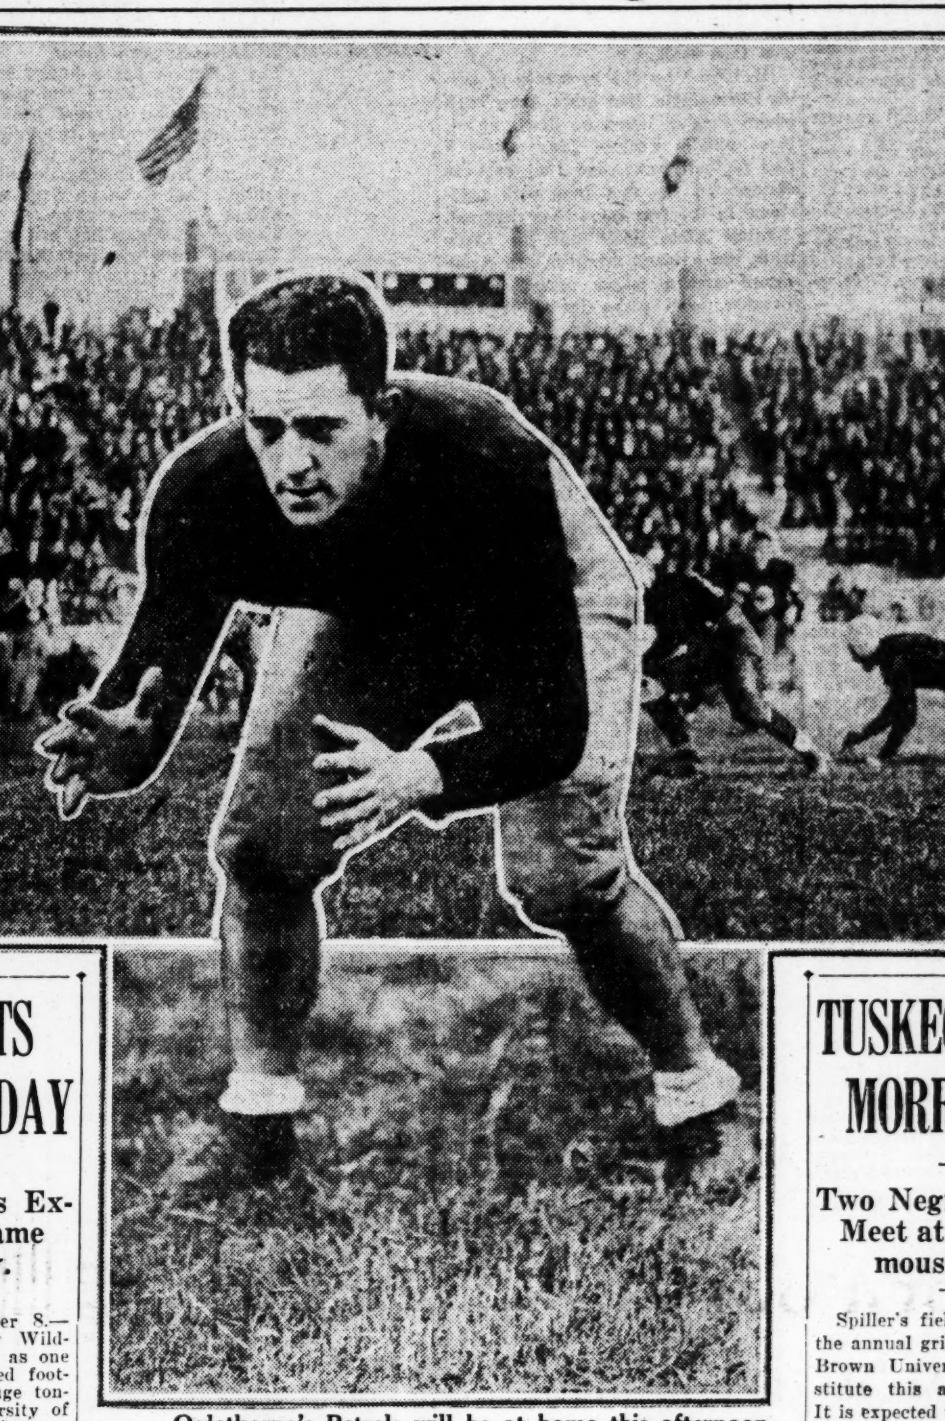

Herrin is another fine back in Harry Robertson's stable, fast, shifty and elusive. All this fancy running doesn't always work on a muddy field, but Oglethorpe has power to drive through the line.

Its forward wall is old, experienced and knows its business. The linemen tackle hard and block well. They will, however, be up against a bunch of beef this afternoon.

WORKS OUT HERE.
Manhattan arrived in the city Friday morning with a sizable crew. The northerners worked out in the afternoon at Hermance field. It is more than difficult to observe something of a team's ability when you see it doing nothing but kicking the football, throwing a few passes, running signals and loosening up after 24 hours of bumping over the cross-ties.

Manhattan, however, has beef in the Members of the first and second string polo teams of the Governor's Horse Guard will go to Athens this morning for a game this afternoon with the University of Georgia team.

Petrels Battle Manhattan College Here Today

TUSKEGEE FACES MORRIS BROWN

Two Negro Elvens Will Meet at Spiller's—Famous Band Here.

Spiller's field will be the scene of the annual grid battle between Morris Brown University and Tuskegee Institute this afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is expected to be the hardest fought game of the colored football schedule in Atlanta.

Thousands of fans from all over the state will be on hand, and more than 500 rosters wearing the yellow and gold of the Alabama institution will be here for the game.

Interest in this game is at its highest peak. Pep meetings have been held daily at the Methodist institution.

Coaches Cannady and Lockhart, mentors at Morris Brown, have been working their men hard for the game. Long and snappy workouts that have sent the Wolverines through their paces at a fast clip during the past five days have put the outfit in the best condition of the year.

Regular before-game practice was the menu for the Atlanta outfit Friday. Setting-up exercise and a light signal drill tapered off the practice. Throughout the week of preparation no injury was listed and the mentors will be able to start their full strength in this game.

The backfield, composed of Tyler, leading the attack and field general, with Credell, Doughty and Nolan as his running mates, will be no easy mark for the forward wall of the Alabama eleven. In the reserves, if needed, Cannady has such men as Shag Jones, Bowen, Alexander and Williams who can be called upon.

Specks Bright, the high-school luminary from Chicago, who is a freshman man at the Boulevard school, has showed up well in practice this week and will likely see service today.

Tuskegee arrived in the city Friday afternoon with the noted squad that played havoc with the championship hopes of Wilberforce on Soldiers' field in Chicago. They all appeared to be in the best of condition, physically.

The noted Tuskegee band will arrive this morning at 9 o'clock. The musicians left Tuskegee early this morning by bus and will parade the downtown section of the city when they arrive.

A special car bringing hundreds of rosters from the Alabama school will arrive this morning. Over 600 Tuskegee students are expected.

Tickets for the game are on sale at Jacobs' Pharmacy at Five Points, Atlanta Athletic Club, Fire Point Cigar Store, Milton-Yates Pharmacy on Auburn avenue, Neighborhood Drugstore, corner of Ashby and West Hunter streets, and Amos Drug Company, on Ashby street.

TECH ARRIVES THIS MORNING FOR BIG GAME

Defensive Battle Is Predicted When Strong Teams Clash.

War on Whisky For Vandy Game

Nashville, Tenn., November 8.—
(P)—Dr. Charles M. Sarraff, dean of men at Vanderbilt university, said today that "the prohibition laws will be enforced at the Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech football game tomorrow. He was assured by W. B. Shofner, federal prohibition officer, that a special detail of 15 deputies would be assigned to the stadium, and, in addition, there will be the regular force of 40 men who patrol the stands.

"Vanderbilt authorities are determined," Dean Sarraff said, "that visitors to the game shall not be embarrassed by the presence of drunken men."

By Ralph McGill,
Constitution Staff Correspondent.
Nashville, Tenn., November 8.—
Out on the city's western border, where the Alma Mater song says the Commodore institution is located, there is something akin to confidence concerning the Vanderbilt-Tech football game scheduled for Dudley field Saturday afternoon.

The populace seems to be excited about beating an Atlanta football team. Your correspondent heard rife jokes about the position in which the Atlanta ball club finished last season, and about what happened to Mr. Bob by Jones on the coast a few months ago. All of which proves that the human mind forgets easily.

The Nashville baseball club won a moral victory last season by finishing as high as second place, the first time that a team has been that high there since the streets. And there never has been a golf player here, but there are some golf clubs other than those in the shop windows.

While the synthetic alumni are consoled by the plays to the south and your Uncle Dan McGugin are not at all that way, they are more afraid of the Georgia Tech football team than they were of Alabama.

UNUSUAL FEAR.
Which is very unusual indeed when one considers that the Georgia Tech football team has lost to North Carolina, Tulane and Notre Dame by substantial margins. There is no doubt but that the Tech attack is a well-oiled machine, and consequently more difficult than was Alabama's, which consisted of Holmes' line-backs and offensive dashes along with Campbell's spin plays.

Vanderbilt played the Alabama line not to drive them back, but merely to halt them on the line, leaving the stopping of the plays to the secondary. The Tide forward line is made up of 200 pounds, and the Commodores were not trying to push back that much. They contented themselves with holding the ground they had, and the Vanderbilt secondary responded with the greatest tackling exhibition of the year.

The Commodore line, from all your correspondent could see the Friday afternoon practice, is going in for an offensive game. The idea seems to have got out that the Tech line is not all it might be. As a matter of fact, it hasn't been, with the exception of the first 18 minutes of the Notre Dame game.

The Vanderbilt plan of attack is not likely to be the Tech plan. It has won two games this fall. Your Uncle Dan McGugin is saying pleasant things, but none of them refer to the football contest. But, unless all signs fail, the Commodores are going to swing from the shoulder and see just how much punch they have.

THE REDHEAD.
Tech's line faces a tremendous responsibility tomorrow. The Tech backfield has more power than Vanderbilt, with Stumpy Thomason and Warner Mizell at the halves. The Commodores can offer only Amos Leonard to match the Tech backs. He is a sophomore.

Harvard-Michigan, Army-Illinois Games Hold Mid-West Interest

Georgia Features Program in East

Important Football Games Are Booked in Various Sections of Country for Afternoon.

By Herbert W. Barker.

New York, November 8.—(AP)—The second Saturday in November, tomorrow, finds a heavy schedule of climatic or semi-climatic football battles with the invasion of the west by Army and Harvard offering promise of the most spectacular trysts of the day.

The east has plenty of football fare in its own territory, but for general interest the palm must go to Army's duel with Bob Zuppke's Illinois eleven and Harvard's fray with Michigan.

Gehrig Enters New Business

New York, November 8.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, has become associated with the New York Stock Exchange house of Appenzeller, Allen & Hill at their office, the Hotel St. Regis, it was announced today.

Athens Defeats Fulton, 13 to 0

Athens, Ga., November 8.—Athens High school won its 21st consecutive victory here today when the Athenians defeated Fulton County High school, from Atlanta, 13 to 0. The local players scored in the second and third periods.

The first score came early in the second when Morehead, who plays offensive fullback and defensive tackle for Athens High, carried the ball around right end for 12 yards and a marker. The second score came after a Fulton High player had carried the ball down to Athens' 15-yard line and were held for downs. This was the only threat the Atlanta boys made during the game.

After stopping the Fulton players, the Athenians started a march down the field from their own 10-yard line, with Morehead carrying the ball three times out of every four and making long gains on each play. At the 14-yard line Guy Smith took the ball on a run around left end for the second touchdown.

Roberts for the visitors was the most spectacular player on the field in spite of his small size. His broken field running and his ability to elude the local tacklers was one of the features of the game.

70,000 PEOPLE TO SEE ILLINI

Huge Crowd to Watch Westerners Play Army Eleven Today.

By Bert Demby,

United News Staff Correspondent.

Champaign-Urbana, Ill., November 8.—(United News.)—They expect some 70,000 persons to see the Army football team play Illinois tomorrow, and that explained why these twin cities with a combined population of less than 30,000 literally were overrun with enthusiastic visiting gridiron fans tonight.

Gladdened by the prospects of seeing Chris Cagle, that great Army back whom they've heard so much about, these middle western fans expect a real football game, and they entirely disregarded the fact that both principals in the fray have been defeated.

Little Albie Booth and his Yale team put a black mark on the Army record and a fellow named Russell Bergher, who plays for Northwestern, was good enough to plunge through the Illinois line for a touchdown which sent Coach Bob Zuppke's men into defeat.

Unlike the eve of most football games, when coaches announce the discovery of a new super-star who "will play tomorrow," the prospects tonight were that both teams will go the same game, relying on the same players who have carried their burdens all year.

The only important change in the line (and it is a possibility, not a certainty) was the contemplated return of Frosty Peters to the game. Frosty got hurt in the Iowa game and two weeks has been on the bench. He now has recovered to the extent that he can get into the game if needed and since he is one of the best drop-kickers in the middle west, he probably will be needed.

But the feature of the game for the people out here will be Chris Cagle. They've heard so much comparison of the red-haired Army back and Red Grange that there is a distinct desire to "see what this fellow is like."

It will be interesting to see what Cagle can do on after the gridiron where Grange became known as the "Galloping Ghost." Another player on the Army team whose ability is well known here is Murrell, the former Minnesota star who cracks into a line just like all Minnesotans. It is likely that Coach Zuppke will start him in the backfield and Army probably will depend upon Bowman O'Keefe, Cagle and Murrell to do its ball carrying.

VANDERBILT FACES TECH

but his hair is red and he has been going along looking like a great big back just a few months away from real greatness. The other members of the Vanderbilt backfield have power, but it is all on a straight line like the out of duty.

Vanderbilt will shoot a lot of plays at the ends. They will use power on them, the guards and backs blocking. The Commodores have at last got a blocking team, and with that they figure to run Tech's ends.

Tech's backs have had little consistency in front of them, but if they get Thomson and Mizell to the scrimmage line the game will be won. If not, there will be another defeat registered at Nashville.

Lewie Hardage, Vanderbilt's backfield coach and the man who was responsible for the development of Reed and Leonard, believes that Vanderbilt is at least 40 per cent more effective than they were last fall and that Tech is probably 60 per cent as strong as last fall. On that he bases a prediction of victory.

Bill Spears, who defeated Tech one year almost single-handedly, is pessimistic. He knows how Tech teams fight, and he knows what they have potentially this year. "It's a tough time Tech got going. They have the men. Alexander had a job down there this year after losing all those men that few people realized. The end of November, I know he will be tough to beat this month. We were at a high peak last week to beat Alabama. I never saw a team like that there for two straight weeks, that's why I'm worried."

Vanderbilt will start a team that is in perfect shape physically. That means that little Bill Schwartz and Joe Scheffer will be at the flanks. Little Bill, who weighs about 200, also does the punting and the line bucking. Joe Scheffer, 167, hustles down under punts well and is a fair defensive man. At tackles your Uncle Dan has Sadie Abernathy and Bill Morehead with Swell Wilson and Bill Brown at guards. Warner will start at center. In the backfield there will be Ray McQuay at fullback with Parker and Thomas at halves and Leonard at quarter. Parker calls signals from half. Thomas, Leonard and Parker are sophomores. The jacket lineup will not be known until game time. The last word was that Brooke would not be able to play at guard.

PERFECT WEATHER. The weather will be perfect if the signs tonight mean anything. The moon is out and a cold wind is whipping in from the north. A light rain fell Thursday but it did not harm the field.

The Jackets will arrive Saturday morning after a final workout Friday at the Flats.

This reporter believes that if Brooke, Jones and Marce are recovered and able to play all the way that Tech will win. No team ever won against a first-class team when its lineup was riddled with injuries. Tech has not had a great deal of work. That may or may not help. But if the team is handicapped by injuries Vanderbilt will win.

The sheriff's speaking date for Saturday afternoon has been called off and as a consequence some fifteen or twenty thousand people are expected to be out at the game.

LARGE CROWD. Mr. Big Bill Schwartz, the business manager, says the crowd may run to 20,000 with all Carnegie foundation men excluded.

While the confidence of the up-town populace remains unshaken they are not saying it with green money. They even thought that some of the Atlanta people might offer points. Which means that their confidence must be all surface stuff. Down in their hearts they know that Tech team very, very tough to beat even if it is slightly run down at the heel.

The Day's Round-Up.

ARMY-ILLINOIS—At Urbana.

I know that Dr. Zuppke's dream is set to trim an eastern team. And when the east comes to the test To grapple with the corn-fed west, The good old Doctor, keen and gruff, Always prepares to shoot his stuff; But he may catch some merrymell From Mister Cagle or Murrell.

The Illini defense is keen. Along Urbana's stretch of green, But I believe the Army has A chance to play the Cagle Jazz.

HARVARD-MICHIGAN—At Ann Arbor.

The Crimson has a husky bunch To show the Maize and Blue That ought to carry through; And if the Cambridge team can save A slump from coming down, I think that Crimson flags will wave Above Ann Arbor town.

Though Michigan has had a chance To rest from warfare's brunt, I still think Harvard should advance Along the western front.

IOWA-MINNESOTA—At Iowa City.

This battle ought to be immense In sizing up the conference; Though Minnesota has a team Of which so many coaches dream, Iowa is no cream-puff crew For any team to wander through. If Minnesota's dream comes true She ought to be the wild old Purdue, But with Iowa grim and set, It ought to be an even bet.

N. Y. U.-GEORGIA—At New York.

I think that Georgia's early pace Has hurt for the November race; The Red and Black spun out too fast For any football team to last; Yet N. Y. U. has had its share Of dandruff and of falling hair; You can't lose Lassman, Hill and Strong And still punch that old pill along; I don't know who'll win this pell-mell, And if I did I might not tell.

PITTSBURGH-W. AND J.—At Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh should canter on its way And take this game upon the bound, But if Jap Douds is fit to play A lot of backs will hit the ground; They won't get up and start to flit, For when Douds hits 'em—they stay hit!

COLUMBIA-COLGATE—At New York.

Columbia's hopes are one too sour Amid the clanking din, But Colgate's team has too much power And Colgate ought to win.

VANDERBILT-GEORGIA TECH.—At Nashville.

At least half-way up to the hilt The big thrust goes to Vanderbilt.

OTHER GAMES.

Yes, this time Maryland will fall To slip one over on old Yale; And Nassau's Tiger ought to range Above old Lehigh, for a change. I don't think Baylor could defeat The Texas Longhorns when they meet; The Fordham-Boston College mill Is anybody's battle still. So is the Navy-Georgetown drill, And if there's any choice to spare, I like the Navy by a hair; Dartmouth should slip one over Brown, Unless the dope comes tumbling down, And S. M. U. should prove the gem In tackling Texas A. and M. Yes, other teams are in their prime, But I've run out of words that rhyme.

Tech Harriers Race Bulldogs

Tapering off their week's training with a jog over the course at the Flats, seven members of Georgia Tech's cross-country team left Atlanta this morning for Athens, where they will meet Georgia's Bulldog harriers this afternoon.

The Jacket squad, in fine spirits after the trimming they administered to Clemson last Saturday, has been on top of its collective form all week. Heralded at the start of the season as an uncertain club, the Jackets have been turning in good results for all time. Al Cristfield and Johnny Summerer, the only two veterans on the squad, have been covering the mile last year, and the new men have proved to be real finds.

Harold Asbury, Bill Herrin and Ken Thomas, uncovered in the recent inter-fraternity races, have all shown well in the time trials and were well up to the leaders last Saturday. Facing the Bulldogs, the Jackets will get their first real test. Bob Young, distance runner for all time, is the Athens team. The remainder of the Georgia squad is composed of veterans and flashes sent up from last year's freshman team. The Bulldogs are rated as one of the strongest teams in the conference this year.

Hoover To Watch Georgetown-Navy

Washington, November 8.—(AP)—Rest was the rule for the Georgetown squad today by way of topping off preparations for one of their hardest clashes of the season with the Navy at Annapolis tomorrow.

Their cleats had been digging into the turf at top speed all week, with emphasis placed on tricky plays built around Johnny Bozek, the 145-pound halfback from Manchester, N. H.

With the president and Mrs. Hoover ready to be on hand at the 50-yard line, plans were set for practically the entire Georgetown student body to journey to Annapolis as well as root-ers for both the rivals.

Captain Lou Little has been spending time drilling Captain Jim Mooney in his punting, and developing cross-check plays so a surprise might be held in reserve.

Georgetown Trims Teachers by 37-0

Georgetown, Ky., November 8.—(AP)—Georgetown College defeated the Eastern Kentucky Teachers here today, 37 to 0, in a listless game. By the victory the Teachers went into first place among Kentucky S. A. A. teams, having three victories and no defeats in the association. Bright spots of the game included a 95-yard return of a kick-off by a touchdown by Rabbit Anderson, Tiger quarterback.

JACKET FROSH MEET AUBURN

Yearlings Taper Off Practice for Game On Armistice Day.

Running signals at 11 Friday afternoon, the yearling gridlers of Georgia Tech brought to a close the hard work of preparation for their game with Auburn's Baby Tigers at Auburn next Monday afternoon, November 11. The Armistice Day affair is expected to prove the worth of the Jacket frosh. Winning two previous games more by virtue of a powerful attack than by any defensive skill, the Junior Jackets will face in the Tiger rats a team which is reputed to carry a real kick.

Auburn hopes for next season are being based on the recruits from this freshman team, which is said to be the strongest turned out at the Lovell Village in several seasons. Kid Clay, have been drilled long and ardently on the defensive phase of the game since they trimmed the Furman frosh two weeks ago. The slashing drive of the Junior Jackets, which pulled that game into the win column after the Tech defense had failed to stop the rushes of the Hurricane ball-toters.

During the past week, however, the mentors have concentrated on the defense, specializing on teaching "Sugar" Cain, the Texas whirlwind, the trick of backing up the line. He has learned his task well, and gives some promise of developing into a good defensive back. He is already able to carry the ball well.

This afternoon's work will probably take the form of a limbering up session, with a rest day scheduled for Sunday and the clash Monday afternoon.

Dartmouth Plays Without Marsters

Providence, R. I., November 8.—(United News.)—Minus the services of Al "Special Delivery" Marsters, Dartmouth backfield ace and the leading college football scorer of the current season, Dartmouth's big Green eleven clashes with Brown University here tomorrow.

Tommy Longnecker, of Delta, Ohio, has been slated to fill the gap caused by Marsters' injury. During the past week's training Dartmouth coaches have concentrated their efforts on drilling Longnecker to fill the vacant quarterback berth.

Kelly Practically Out of Game

Springfield, Ky., November 8.—(AP)—John "Shipwreck" Kelly, star sophomore halfback on the University of Kentucky football team, said here tonight he did not think it would be possible for him to play with Kentucky against the University of Alabama team tomorrow. Kelly's grandmother is seriously ill here and he said her condition tonight is unchanged. Unless she is much better, he said, he will not leave. If her condition should improve, plans have been made to rush Kelly to Alabama by airplane in the morning to get him there in time for the game.

Palm Beach High To Play Frosh

West Palm Beach, Fla., November 8.—(AP)—Palm Beach High school's football team, which has been suspended from the State High School Athletic Association for playing five ineligible men in two games in the early part of the season, will complete the season's schedule by meeting a number of freshmen teams from southern colleges, it was announced today by Coach Frank Hanlon, of the school.

Scheduled games with high school eleven from Ocala, St. Petersburg and Fort Lauderdale have been called off and the two games which Palm Beach won from Gainesville and Coral Gables, while using the ineligible players, have been forfeited. A new schedule has been arranged for the Wildcats, however, and the five ineligible players will be used, Coach Hanlon said.

Freshmen from Miami university will play here on Armistice Day; freshmen from Southern college will meet the Wildcats on November 16 or 23, and Freshmen from Florida Military academy will come here on November 23. Efforts are being made to arrange a game here with Havana university freshmen for December 5 and negotiations have been opened with Stetson and Rollins college for games with their freshmen teams.

The five players were declared ineligible by the state association on the ground that they did not attend high school last year. All five were first string players.

Two Games.

Columbus, Ga., November 8.—(AP)—Two football games are scheduled at Fort Benning tomorrow afternoon, Knoxville College, of Knoxville, Tenn., playing the 24th Infantry, and North Georgia Aghitah College, playing the 89th Field Artillery.

HARVARD READY FOR WOLVERINE

Historic Ann Arbor Thronged With Huge Football Crowd.

Ann Arbor, November 8.—(United News.)—Harvard's gesture toward more amiable relations with mid-western universities reaches a climax here tomorrow afternoon when the powerful Crimson eleven makes its first appearance before a Big Ten conference crowd against a three-defeated Michigan team.

Win, lose or draw, Harvard is expected to gain from the contest, because the game should remove the last of "high hat" charges against Harvard as well as show that the Crimson physically can take and give as well as the hardy westerners.

Ann Arbor was aglow with preparations for the game, which renews the oldest of all inter-sectional contests, Michigan having traveled to Cambridge 48 years ago to lose by a lone touchdown.

Streets were filled with crowds, flags and hawkers, and fraternity houses with noise and merrymaking. The football teams, having undergone their final preparations, both rested outside of town. Harvard at the Oakland Hills Country Club, near Detroit, and Michigan at Washtenaw Country Club.

Betting was heavy, with the Crimson a slight favorite. The visitors staged a light workout in the huge stadium, where more than 80,000 will be in their seats when the game starts. Later the Wolverines had their final, peppy workout.

Harvard apparently will stake its hopes to win on its light, fast backs and a well-developed passing attack. Michigan is depending on its fighting spirit and the generalship of Harrison Simrall at quarter. Loss of three Big Ten games this season has been blamed largely on poor generalship, and Simrall is getting his big chance.

Boston Promoters' Licenses Revoked

Boston, November 8.—(United News.)—The boxing licenses of Jimmie Byrne, of Louisville, Ky., and George Godfrey, of Philadelphia, were revoked by the Massachusetts boxing commission at a special meeting here today.

The revocations were made by unanimous vote of the commission on grounds that both fighters showed no contest in their scheduled 10-round bout at Boston arena last night. The bout was stopped by Johnny Bransell, referee, on the grounds that "neither boxer was trying to make it a fight."

SYNOPSIS.

Tom Davies, football star of a small eastern college, plays brilliantly in his last game. After the battle Bruce Stevens, his roommate, asks him to go to the dance that night to escort a girl who has been asked down to the college for him. Bruce explains that he wishes to avoid meeting one of the chaperons. Tom agrees to substitute for him. The girl, Suzanne Branch, makes an instantaneous appeal to him. He tells Tom that she is engaged to marry a friend of her father's. After she leaves Tom writes to her. Before the Christmas holidays Tom meets Suzanne in New York. Suzanne breaks her engagement to the other man, when she and Tom realize they love each other, and Suzanne invites Tom to her home to meet her family. Suzanne goes down to the college for commencement.

INSTALLMENT VI. THE ESTRANGEMENT.

When Tom reached the hotel he found Suzanne complaining of a headache.

He suggested aspirin and ice bags and everything he could think of. But she shook off his attentions. "No, Tom, I'll be all right. It's just a little headache. I don't need a thing."

"Well, then shall we be starting?" "Starting?" she echoed.

"Yes, I told Bruce to wait over at the house, and we'd pick him up there."

A curious light came into her eyes. "But I told you I had a headache."

"You mean you don't feel well enough to meet him?"

"Yes. That's it. At least I'd rather not, if you don't mind."

"But this is about the only chance. He's leaving this evening, you see."

"O, both of us will live if we don't meet, darling."

"But I'd like you to—I mean I'd counted on it."

She laid her small hand against his mouth, and looked at him with eyes, tender and adoring. He could refuse her nothing. He pushed his hand through her hair, pulled her to him, and in the roughness of passion, kissed her until she shivered a little, and closed her eyes and opened them again as if staring at another person.

At last he released her. "I'm sorry you don't want to meet him now—that you don't feel well enough," he said.

"You can call him up and explain," she said quickly. She had recovered herself without effort.

"Yes," he laughed, a little uncertainly, "but naturally I'd like to say good-by to him myself."

"But you're going to take me to West River on the bus, aren't you?"

And it's almost time.

"Well, I don't see how I can. You see, if I do that, I won't be able to get back in time."

"In time?" she echoed irritably.

"In time for what?"

"To say good-by to Bruce, of course."

"O!" There was the faintest curl to her lip. "You do forget easily, don't you?"

"You promised you'd take me to West River."

"I didn't promise. I merely thought I could do that after we'd seen Bruce a minute."

"And you're going back on your promise, aren't you?"

"But darling, I can good-by to you here. And we're going to see each other Tuesday."

"Are we?" A little mocking laugh did come from her then. She looked, he thought, somehow different. Then all at once, when he was least prepared for it, she burst into a storm of tears, of wild, broken accusations.

"You like that man more than you do me! You want to say good-by to him, but not to me! You're tired of me already. I was a fool ever to listen to you. Well, I hate you—if you want to know! I hate you! I'm going back to Pleasant Brook about right now, and I'm going to marry Robert if he'll have me."

In stupefaction and hopelessness Tom regarded her. He tried to reason with her, and she was deaf. He tried to take her into his arms, and she jerked herself away, walked up and down the room, wept copiously, refused to be comforted.

She hurled things at him that he did not know she knew, twisted new meanings into words he had said to her months previously, left nothing unsaid that might wound him. And again and again she told him to go, that she didn't want to see him any more.

He was too bewildered to understand anything except that she was unhappy. He assured her he loved her more than the world, that nothing else mattered, or ever would matter. "Let me take you to West River," he pleaded. "I didn't know you felt this way."

Gradually her tears ceased, she grew silent. He touched her arm, drew her closer to him. She put her head against his shoulder and explored his coat lapel with her fingers. She murmured that she was sorry. They kissed.

In a low voice she whispered, "You're mine—you're mine!"

In that instant Tom's memory went back. He recalled the first time he had met her family, the spring day they had returned to the house, and she had been so furious with her younger sister for letting her dog loose. She had used those same words then. The tone had been different, but back of them there seemed to be the same indomitable instinct for possession.

He felt a little puzzled as he took her in on the bus. She was silent now, staring out of the window at his side, her face not yet free from the storm of tears that had swept it.

But with her prettiness, her air of frailty and youth and delicacy, as she stood on the platform at last a wave of tenderness came over him. He felt somehow that he loved her more than ever now that he had seen in her the presence of a weakness. He forgave her that. It was less easy to forgive himself for bending before it.

When he reached the fraternity house it was almost six. Upstairs he switched on the lights in Bruce's empty rooms and looked around. Bags and clothes had gone, but the same pictures were on the walls, the same light filtered through the screens on the worn oriental rug. It was oppressively still.

All at once Tom saw a scrap of yellow wrapping paper lying on the table. Bruce's bold scrawl was spread across it.

"So long, old man!" There was nothing else.

Tom Davis read the sporting page, and finally folded it up and put it in his pocket. Glancing down the aisle, he saw that every seat was, as usual, filled, that the same familiar passengers were to be seen. Almost every night they took this train, as he did. They must know his face, too, by now.

He looked out of the window. The landscape was an old story. He knew every brick and stick in the stations along the sound. He looked without seeing, being busy with his thoughts and in particular an immediate problem.

He had now been married for seven months. If Suzanne's first strangeness and intoxicating mystery had somewhat worn off, it was nevertheless true he was profoundly in love with her. He counted himself exceedingly happy and fortunate, as men went. There were, of course, one or two little things... like this problem tonight, for instance.

When he had left college he had come to New York. He had had five flying months of bachelorhood. A college friend had pushed him past the membership committee of one of the smaller clubs, and he had taken a room there.

He had been immensely occupied by the business of getting married. He had never realized how much there was to it. His father had come forward generously with an offer of help, and after much consultation Tom and Suzanne decided to buy some small suburban house in Westchester or Connecticut.

To achieve this purpose satisfactorily he had first purchased an immense second-hand car, which drank gasoline greedily, and ate up huge tires with a reckless appetite.

Together he and Suzanne explored the countryside, selecting, hesitating, coming to an agreement about one place, only to fall back dismayed when they heard the price, and then hunting all over again.

In the end they settled upon a re-modelled farm house in the neighborhood of Stamford. It stood on its own land, had a smell of the country about it, and offered just enough chance for alterations and additions to entice them. They closed the deal, and Tom's father sent his check.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 72

It was Kai Shang, a huge Celestial, who himself had murdered the captain of the pearl schooner as he lay asleep in his berth. Then, decked out in that officer's apparel which bore the badges and insignia of authority, the wily Chinaman and his motley band—the scum of the south seaports, had attempted to round the South Atlantic and find a port where they might market their ill-gotten wealth—and no questions asked.

The day before they sighted Jungle Island and discovered the little land-locked harbor upon the bosom of which the schooner now rode quietly at anchor, the watch beheld the outline of a warship upon the distant horizon. The chance of being spoken and investigated by a man-of-war appealed not at all to any of them and so they had put into hiding until all danger was past, some miles north of Tarzan and his castaways.

During this time of waiting, the mutineers amused themselves by hunting, fishing and exploring the beautiful island. It was upon one of these expeditions far from camp that Kai Shang was surprised by the sound of voices ahead of him in the jungle. Motioning his companions to follow his example, Kai Shang crawled through the jungle in the direction of the unseen speakers. Soon they saw two men sitting on a log, earnestly conversing.

One was the mate of the Kincaid, the other the most depraved looking of her sailors. "I think we can do it," the mate was saying. "Three of us can paddle the boat to the mainland in a day. Let the Englishman look out for himself." "But," he continued, "we'll take the woman. She's too good a looker to leave behind." He winked knowingly, and added: "She ought to pay as well to get her back to civilization."

YOUNG HEIRESS LOSES FORTUNE IN STOCK MARKET

Omaha, Neb., November 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Shotwell today said her daughter, Miss Margaret Shotwell, 22-year-old "dignified heiress" of Omaha and concert pianist, had lost all her money in the stock market. Mrs. Shotwell placed the loss at nearly $1,000,000.

Miss Shotwell is now in New York city, where, her mother said, she has been forced to move from a suite of rooms in an expensive hotel to a single room.

Miss Shotwell's money was left to her by the will of John Neal, stockholder in the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company and a district manager for the company, who died in 1923. The bequest was said to be $1,000,000 and included $75,000 worth of Reynolds stock.

There has never been a case when fingerprint identification failed," according to Captain Wright. "In two fingerprints of the same man's finger, taken at a seven-year interval, I found twenty exact points of identical peculiarity, and could not find one that differed. It is practically impossible to mutilate the fingerprints so as to interfere with fingerprints, for these grow back, even after the surface of the finger has been sandpapered off. Of course, in important murder and robbery cases, not much weight can be attached to fingerprints, nowadays, since a really good crook wears gloves, and wipes off the wet articles he handles with a wet cloth. But fingerprints are of inestimable

Fingerprinting Now Perfect Science, Captain Wright Says

"The only really exact science in the world is the science of identification by fingerprints," said Captain M. J. Wright, head of the identification bureau at police headquarters, while discussing the plans of Fulton county to co-operate with the city fingerprint department or to establish a bureau of its own.

"There has never been a case when fingerprint identification failed," according to Captain Wright. "In two fingerprints of the same man's finger, taken at a seven-year interval, I found twenty exact points of identical peculiarity, and could not find one that differed. It is practically impossible to mutilate the fingerprints so as to interfere with fingerprints, for these grow back, even after the surface of the finger has been sandpapered off. Of course, in important murder and robbery cases, not much weight can be attached to fingerprints, nowadays, since a really good crook wears gloves, and wipes off the wet articles he handles with a wet cloth. But fingerprints are of inestimable value in the identification of escaped criminals. The photographs and fingerprints of all criminals with whom the identification bureau comes in contact are filed, by means of a very complete and adequate filing system, so that the bureau here is in touch with that in Washington and those in the few Atlanta "Bogues" gallery is kept by Mr. Wright of all these criminals, and detailed accounts of their records are maintained.

The fingerprint machinery of all sorts that is used in the identification bureau is of the latest type. A fingerprint on any substance can be photographed quickly by means of a metallic powder that is spread over the print, and a film-negative that instantly picks up an impression of it.

The only instance of variation in the opinion of experts over fingerprints, according to Mr. Wright, occurred in the Hall-Mills murder case, but this was only due to the fact that the disputed print was not a perfect one, so that unquestionably, the science of fingerprints is quite exact and infallible.

W. A. MCKINNEY, NOTED POLICEMAN, MAY RETIRE SOON

An injury received eight years ago in a gun battle with a burglar, and a partially paralyzed left side has caused one of Atlanta's most popular policemen to seek retirement, it was learned Friday.

Entering the city's constabulary May 13, 1913, William A. (Bill) McKinney, whose vigilance in pursuit of criminals made for him an enviable record and who is one of the few Atlanta policemen wearing the medal for bravery awarded by the police committee of council, has filed formal application for his retirement.
